-BACK IN JAIL-

Charged

Kapuskasing, Ont. (UPI)—Nineteen non-union woodcutters who allegedly fired point-blank into a mass march of 400 striking bushworkers were re-arrested Tuesday night and charged with non-capital murder.

The 19 independents, released Monday night on shooting-to-wound charges, had gone into hiding to escape the revenge of 1,000 strikers. The union men swore they would "lynch" the 19 for killing of their comrades.

Police said 200 strikers, members of the lumber and sawmill workers union, were being rounded up on charges of inciting a riot.

The bitter bushworkers' battle erupted into violence early Monday morning, when 3 men were killed and 9 wounded at a railway siding 37 miles west of here.

Opened Fire
Police said the independents opened fire with rifles, shotguns and pistols when the unarmed strikers marched 5 abreast toward them in an effort to stop them from unloading wood.

Premier John Roberts rushed 250 extra Ontario provincial police to the area around this northern pulpwood town as union lumberjacks threatened to storm the jail where the 19 were being held Monday. The independents then were released on $500 bail each. Legal sources said that if bail is granted this time, it will be considerably higher.

Members of the Lumber and Sawmill Workers' Union went on strike against the Spruce Falls Pulp and Paper Co. Jan. 14 to back demands for a new contract.

Joe Laforce, president of Local 2995 of the Lumber and Sawmill Workers' Union said he was "shocked" to hear of the group's release.

The independents were charged with shooting with intent to wound and released suddenly on a total of $9,500 bail at the height of rumors that lumber and sawmill union members would storm the jail where they were being held.

Bail was posted by Henry Veilleux, an official of a Val-rita cooperative for which the defendants work.

Eye For Eye
"An eye for an eye. We'll get them," one union worker said.

"If they let those guys out they're dead, that's for sure," said another.

When some 1,000 union workers walked out of Spruce Falls Pulp and Paper Company Jan. 14, the independents who were non-union members, continued cutting wood on crown lands with government permits.

Independents
In an attempt to stop the independents from hauling their wood out, union members during the past 3 weeks have scattered woodpiles, and overturned and battered trucks and sleighs.

Police, who were unable to stop Monday's bloody incident, did not provide escort for the bailed-out men although cars carrying 5 and 6 men each drove back and forth in front of the local jail all evening.

City Teacher Pension
Bill Moves Ahead 5-0By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

A bill authorizing the Lincoln Board of Education to establish a teacher retirement plan won 5-0 approval of the Legislature's Education Committee Tuesday.

The measure, LB247, sponsored by Lancaster County's 3 lawmakers, was advanced to the floor for full-scale debate.

Committee members were told that the bill will help

Lincoln obtain and keep qualified teachers, and will generally raise the quality of education in the Capital City.

The only opposition was expressed by Leo Bartunek, who said the proposal amounted to "a blank check which could run into many zeroes."

More than 100 Lincoln teachers listened in on the public hearing.

LB247, Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme noted, is merely an enabling act and, in itself, proposes no specific retirement or pension plan.

It opens the door to establishment of a broad retirement program, which would include not only teachers but all school employees.

Stromer: 'Proper'

Sen. Marvin E. Stromer told the committee that "it is proper to have the plan established by the elected school board . . . and the cost should be determined by the school board."

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly said the bill will "assist in promoting the quality of education desirable for our (Lincoln) community."

Education Board President Arthur Danielson said a retirement system would "help keep career teachers in our system" and attract others who must consider security in seeking a position.

The bill will "help us to bring present retirement benefits up to a standard adequate to take care of our teachers and to meet competition," Danielson said.

Other Support

Other support was voiced by representatives of the Board of Education's pension plan advisory citizens committee; Mrs. Harold Thompson, president of the Lincoln area council of the PTA, and Ely Feistner, executive secretary of the Lincoln Education Assn.

All witnesses told the committee that they believe Lincolnites have sufficient confidence in school board members to allow them to formulate the plan once legislative authority is granted.

Heard and held was LB392, providing for filing of an audit by public organizations whose membership includes school boards or teachers.

The bill would affect the Nebraska State Education Association, the Nebraska School Improvement Association, the Nebraska State School Boards Association, and the Nebraska Rural Schools Association, according to Sen. Clifton Foster of Bradshaw.

Specific Exclusions
Foster proposed amendments which would specifically exclude private and parochial organizations.

The bill, he said, is the "first in a series of investigations (which he plans) to inform the public about expenditure of public funds."

Representatives of NSEA and NSIA said they would not object to the measure.

The committee advanced on a 5-1 vote LB426, extending State Department of Education services to deaf children "from birth" and changing the term "deaf and dumb" to "acoustically handicapped."

Heard and held was LB327, providing for publication of the annual budgets of Class I school districts. Motions to advance and kill both failed in executive session.

Labor Censure
Move Defeated

... GETS PROGRAM SUPPORT

London (P)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's government turned back an opposition assault Tuesday night and won parliamentary approval of the emergency economic program he drew up because France blocked Britain's entry into the European Common Market.

At the end of a two-day debate in the House of Commons, Macmillan's Conservatives defeated a Laborite motion of no confidence, 333-227, and went on to win support of his program, 330-227.

The Conservatives have a margin of some 100 votes over their Laborite and Liberal opponents in the House, and had been expected to win the parliamentary tests handily.

But the size of the government's majorities was viewed with surprise because of the opposition's strong attacks and the dissension in Conservative ranks over Macmillan's foreign and domestic policies.

The Laborites charged that the Macmillan government's handling of the Common Market negotiations and subsequent developments is threatening the basis of the British economy and the Atlantic Alliance.

George Brown, a leading contender for the Labor Party leadership vacated by the death of Hugh Gaitskill, assailed the government's action in advising Princess Margaret to cancel a visit to Paris in view of strained British-French relations over the Brussels breakdown.

Brown charged that Macmillan is risking a split in the Atlantic Alliance by "a reckless policy of an insult a day to France."

Cheered

Laborites cheered wildly as Brown declared Britain needs new men at the helm — "untainted with the duplicity, deception and double-dealing universally regarded as the hallmark of this administration."

James Callaghan, the Labor Party's expert on economic affairs, charged that the Brussels breakdown is prompting a flight of British capital to Europe. He demanded that the Macmillan government halt such an exodus of investment funds, imposing exchange controls if necessary.

However, the Macmillan program endorsed in Parliament envisions less, not more, economic controls. Among the actions planned are:

— A Commonwealth trade ministers' meeting to be held in London in April or May to stimulate business.

Seek U.S. Trade
— British efforts to seek closer trade with the United States, friends in Europe and other nations.

— A government drive for world commodity agreements, a cutback of tariffs and freer trade generally.

Reginald Maudling, chancellor of the exchequer, wound up the debate for the government.

"We are facing a great disappointment but not a disaster," he said. "It can only be turned into a disaster by our own folly or our own weakness."

Maudling said he was sure collapse of the negotiations aimed at getting Britain into Europe was not permanent.

"The whole logic of history means that we must develop a united Europe in the long run within the Atlantic community," he said.

Deputy Foreign Minister Edward Heath, the man who led Britain's team in Brussels, said a solid guarantee of good faith from all 6 partners in the Common Market would be needed if Britain resumed negotiations with them.

Oral Admission

"While being questioned, he orally admitted his participation in the holdup," Carroll said.

"Four eyewitnesses to the crime, including the victims, also were brought to the station, where they positively identified him as the holdup man," the chief added.

The man had about $50 in his possession, Carroll noted. The gun, a .22-caliber automatic pistol, was not on his person but was recovered by police.

Carroll said the man's criminal record, on file at police headquarters, shows two previous convictions for armed robbery — in Oklahoma and Arizona.

The chief added: "The description given us by the victims of the holdup was fairly accurate in his case. There was also a strong resemblance to a composite picture made by police officials."

Florida Mishap
Takes 43 Lives
... IN MIDDLE OF SWAMP

Miami, Fla. (P)—A Miami to Chicago jet airliner carrying 43 persons crashed and burned Tuesday in south Florida's Everglades wilderness shortly after takeoff in a vicious squall. The Coast Guard reported all aboard apparently were killed.

"The fuselage is busted up," said Lt. Cmdr. James Dillon, one of two helicopter pilots who found and explored the wreck. "It's been consumed by fire. Badly burned — gutted."

"There were two fires burning. From the air, they looked like bonfires. I suppose they were in the 4-foot high category."

The tail was broken off. Other major components were scattered around."

Dillon's co-pilot, Lt. Cmdr. James Wallace, reported seeing at least one body intact.

Swamp buggies and other special vehicles lurched toward the pitch-dark crash scene — 9 miles from the nearest road — where the Northwest Orient Airlines plane, missing 6½ hours, was found.

The plane was a Boeing 720B jet capable of carrying 165 passengers. Aboard were 35 passengers and a crew of 8.

Dillon and Wallace said it

Seven minutes after take-off, radio contact was lost between plane and ground and the aircraft also disappeared from radar screens.

The pilot, Capt. Roy W. Almquist, was about 26 miles from Miami and had just requested clearance to climb to 25,000 feet for the flight to Chicago.

By 2 p.m. Coast Guard, Air Force, Civil Air Patrol and volunteer planes were taking to the skies in search of the big airliner.

While amphibious "Weasel" tracked vehicles and ballooned swamp buggies headed by searchlight for the crash scene, Coast Guard planes circled over the wreck to mark it.

Sub Base Hunt Hard

... ITALY, SPAIN BALK AT HOST ROLE

Rome (P)—The United States was reported Tuesday night encountering political problems in finding a Polaris submarine base in Spain or Italy.

But an American source said Washington is going ahead with plans to station 3 Polaris subs in the Mediterranean starting April 1.

The source said the 3 will run long-distance patrols out of Holy Loch, Scotland, until a Mediterranean base is found.

Left-Leaning

Premier Amintore Fanfani's left-leaning government faces a general election in late April or early May and is eager to go to the voters with an Italy free of American missile bases. Jupiter land-based missiles are being withdrawn from Italy.

Gen. Francisco Franco of Spain is said to be demanding admission to NATO as States was ready to start talking.

The source said there was a question whether the Polaris subs — which will be operating as NATO units — can use a base of Spain, a non-NATO member.

Not Prepared

Washington, the source said, was not prepared to promise NATO admission to Madrid as the price for a 5-year extension on U.S. use of the Spanish bases.

In Italy, the problem was one of domestic politics. Fanfani and Andreotti are Christian Democrats and staunchly pro-NATO. But the government needs the backing from the leftwing Socialist Party, which is neutralist and anti-NATO.

Fanfani opponents have accused the premier of playing a double game — pretending to get rid of NATO missile bases while planning to let Polaris subs operate from Italian bases.

The defense pact between the United States and Spain must be renewed. Gilpatric was to have visited Madrid to get the talks going. But last weekend Washington announced his trip to Madrid had been postponed. The U.S. Embassy in Madrid said neither Spain nor the United States was ready to start talking.

Winter Grains Greening Up

Too Early To Determine Any Recent Cold Spell Damage

Some of Nebraska's winter grain crops have started to green but it's too early to determine how well they withstood the recent cold spell, government crop observers reported Tuesday.

"The lack of snow and early greening are causing some concern as this situation leaves the crops vulnerable to damage should a sharp drop in temperatures occur," according to the weekly crop report of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

Topsoil moisture conditions have been improved by the melting of snow, and the outlook was brightened further by some more snowfall last weekend, the report said.

Other observations: Milder weather last week sharply reduced supplemental feed requirements and made it much easier for farmers and ranchers to care for livestock.

Field work remained at a standstill but farmers were able to devote more time to outside farm tasks.

Pastures, ranges and stalk fields have been open for grazing and livestock have been doing well on field feed and roughage. Quality of the feed was improved by the melting snow which cleaned and softened the cured grasses.

Moderate weather was beneficial to livestock and weight gains increased from their recent low level.

Relentless Fight Against Crime Urged

Omaha (AP) — United States District Atty. Theodore Richling and Governor Frank Morrison urged a relentless day-to-day fight against crime Tuesday at a meeting of the Exchange Club.

Richling said, "Justice must look past the wife and children of the criminal sitting in the front row of the courtroom to the back row where the victims are sitting if there is to be an effective fight against crime."

He said that there is an increasing tendency to safeguard the constitutional rights of criminals with not enough thought of those of innocent victims.

"We ought to start putting the right tab on these so-called juvenile delinquents," Richling said. "When they start roaming the street in packs flaunting adult laws with impunity they should be called just what they are — young hoodlums."

He said that after the parents have failed and the schools have failed to teach the young man's acceptable to society "their rehabilitation should be started with institutional discipline."

Richling said that far too many criminals are being turned loose on legal technicalities with "the courts too prone to dwell on the sociological side of the question."

"Unless the criminal knows the court carries a big stick with the intention to use it justice becomes the laughing stock of the criminal world," he added.

Morrison said that crime prevention goes hand in hand with universal respect for the law.

"Law enforcement basically is the business of all of us and children are first made aware of it in the home," he said. "Parents must conduct themselves so they can earn the respect of their children."

"Children are not as dumb as some people seem to think they are. We must lay down a pattern of behavior for ourselves and our children."

"We must have certain inflexible rules and punishment must be certain. It need not be unnecessarily severe but there must be no escape. That is the way a child learns to respect the laws of a community," he said.

Morrison said there must not be two sets of laws for the residents of a community.

"The punishment must be the same for the judge, the mayor and the bum on the street," he concluded.

Dog Poisonings Anger Oakland Area Citizens

By GENE BUDIG
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Oakland — Little Marie Peterson walks to school alone these days.

Her best friend is gone.

"Mommie says Joker will never be back . . . I do miss him so," the glum 5-year-old relates.

For months, Marie and her faithful pet beagle could be seen going to and from the schoolhouse up the street.

"The whole thing is tragic," says the girl's mother, Mrs. Harold Peterson.

However, Marie isn't the only saddened youngster in the community.

Within the past two months, 10 dogs have died of strychnine poisoning, town officials note.

An angered veterinarian, Dr. Tom Weatherly, advises dog lovers to confine their pets for the time being.

He said the poison has been injected in meat eaten by the dogs.

Officials report "no encouraging leads" in the case. Dr. Weatherly reminds that any person in Nebraska convicted of poisoning a dog is subject to a fine up to $500 and a 6-month jail sentence, or both.

According to Mrs. Peterson, similar outbreaks have occurred in recent years with no convictions.

"The people are really upset this time. They have never been so upset," she adds. "Another thing, this poison could be consumed by a child."

Only Boyd County Minus Registered Irrigation Well

Boyd County holds the distinction of being the only Nebraska county without a registered irrigation well, the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics reported Tuesday.

As of the end of 1962, a total of 24,372 irrigation wells were registered in the state, ranging in numbers from one each in Pawnee and Richardson Counties, to 2,160 in Dawson County.

Registration of wells is required under legislation enacted in 1957.

Statistical data from the registrations have been assembled under a co-operative project involving the State Water Resources Department, Agricultural Extension Service, Conservation and Survey Division of the University of Nebraska, the Agricultural Statistics Division and the State Department of Agriculture.

Findings include these: The average depth of irrigation wells registered in the state is 124 feet.

The deepest wells are found in the western counties and the shallowest along the lower Platte Valley.

More than 5% of the wells in the Panhandle and southwestern counties are over 300 feet deep.

For Nebraska as a whole, 15.6% of the wells are 50 feet or less in depth; 32.6% range from 51 to 100 feet; and 37% range from 101 to 200 feet.

Water level in more than three-fourths of the wells is at a depth of 100 feet or well.

Grand Island-Elm Creek Stretch May Open In '63

...55 Miles Involved, Hossack Reveals

Omaha (AP)—State Engineer John Hossack said Tuesday there is an excellent chance that the entire 55 mile stretch of Interstate Highway from Grand Island to Elm Creek will be opened during 1963.

There is even "a remote possibility" that an additional 20-mile segment from Elm Creek to Lexington will be completed this year, although "a 1964 date is much more likely," he said.

The 55 miles coupled with 3 miles of Interstate access at Lincoln expected to be completed this year would make for a 58 mile total and "by far our best year to date," he declared in a speech delivered to the Omaha Businessmen's Breakfast Club meeting at the Castle Hotel in Omaha.

Hossack cited figures to indicate that Nebraska, "rather than lagging behind the rest of the nation in the Interstate program," is now "carrying its share of the load."

The 75 miles completed to full standard so far represent about 15% of the state's total Interstate mileage, slightly under the national average.

But measured by per cent of total Interstate costs so far obligated, Nebraska has put 41% of the total funds under obligation, compared with a 32% average nationally, for a 7th place ranking as of last June 30.

Although financial limitations spell completion of the Nebraska Interstate in 1972, a continuation of the present rate of contract letting would complete the job 3 years ahead of schedule, he noted.

Hossack said "significant progress" has been made on state highways outside the Interstate system as well.

Construction had increased in 4 years from approximately 400 miles per year to well over 500 per year.

At the beginning of the current biennium July 1, 1961, 70 towns lacked a dustless surfaced road. By the end of this biennium, the total will have been reduced by 38.

Within 5 or 6 years the department of roads hopes to dustless surface the last re-ent enough to be able to hold limited jobs in society.

"Irrespective of whether they go back to society, they should have this training. They deserve everything we can give them," Wyant said.

There are several hundred patients at the institution now who are capable of receiving such training, but it cannot be given to them because of inadequate staff and facilities.

In housing areas, Wyant explained there are 3 buildings in which there is such a lack of space that beds are placed just 10 inches apart.

Policy Problem

Morris noted there is the problem of whether all mentally retarded should be kept at Beatrice, or whether other facilities should be located around the state.

In that connection, he advised the committee he believes there is a chance the state may be able to get about 5,600 acres and several buildings at the Hastings Naval Ammunition Depot which the federal government has declared surplus.

Morris has proposed that this complex be designed as a training and treatment center, leaving only custodial patients at Beatrice.

The committee did not indicate what it thought of this proposal, but Morris said that "without committing anyone" he plans to pursue it further.

"The 400"

"The 400" is usually thought of as a group of very special people.

And last year in Nebraska "The 400" was a very special group indeed, for this is the number who met needless and untimely death in traffic accidents -- a new record, by the way!

The toll would have been even higher if such public-spirited citizens as the independent insurance agents of your community were not on the job working for the safety of you and your loved ones.

Hard Economic Questions

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

On this page yesterday were columns of a related nature by Drew Pearson and Marquis Childs. Mr. Pearson surmised that were Abraham Lincoln alive today and again president of the country, he would find poverty a matter of great concern to him. In support of his thesis, he cited statements from a book by Michael Harrington entitled "The Other America: Poverty in the United States." Forty to fifty million people are becoming increasingly invisible, Pearson quoted Harrington as saying.

The invisible people are the impoverished ones who find their state of life further and further removed from the rest of society, Harrington points out that the distance between poverty and the average income groups used to be quite small but that it has substantially increased through the years. Support for the theory is found in facts which show the American average annual income to be constantly climbing but millions of people remaining in the depressed income category. Percentage-wise there are fewer impoverished people today but they still constitute a large segment of the population.

Mr. Childs actually was on quite a different subject — the race to land a man on the moon — but there was one thread which bound the two writers together. This was the thread of money, the thread which links up so many of the otherwise divergent segments of our life and our society. And while only a threat, it can support an almost unlimited weight.

Commenting on the White House decision to pursue the race to the moon, Mr. Childs noted that "a better case could be made that the billions for the moon race would be better spent on education, health, improve living conditions . . . All this was weighed in the White House debate, with the President saying that theoretically it might be true that the money spent in other ways could contribute far more to the sum total of human happiness. But the hard political fact was that no consensus could be had in Congress for spending for those other purposes . . ."

Human compassion — that is the thing that greatly marked the lives of great men in our history. Men such as George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt all had a very great faith in the wisdom and rights of the people. They recognize humanity itself as the greatest resource of this nation. One wonders if the premium has not been placed now on something else, still not sharp enough in focus to clearly define. Few are the voices heard any more these days on the plight of the millions who find themselves in a hopeless state of poverty and ignorance.

Point Of Distinction

The indignation of some of the law makers and a good deal of the public over the bills run up by the several public power agencies for litigation and legal fees, centered on interagency disputes, is understandable.

The public remains single minded in the opinion that utility men should direct their total energies to running utilities. They should not divert funds and their energies to engage in legal warfare. They are losing patience over what they consider to be unending lawsuits and big legal fees.

But it is too simple an explanation to heap all the criticism on the agencies. What of the state's own failing?

The state has never provided a facility to which the agencies may repair in ques-

Even social scientists have in some cases come around to eliminating the factor of poverty as a cause of social ills. Rather, they point to such secondary things as broken homes, drunkenness, lack of education, poor health, bad environment, etc.

There isn't any doubt that broken homes and all the rest are a major cause of crime, delinquency and generally wasted lives. But how long would such things exist if it were not for poverty? What causes a man and wife to break up? Those in social work can give a better answer but many things are responsible such as poor health, simple incompatibility, drinking, financial problems, lack of consideration and a host of others. And if there is one place or heading under which all these things might be grouped, it is ignorance.

It is ignorance which causes people to permit small things to disrupt the greater meaning and significance of their lives. It is ignorance that stems from either lack of mentality or lack of education. In the world of the impoverished, it is an ignorance that breeds upon itself. In poverty, how is one expected to come to know or appreciate the human values by which other men live?

How can they come to know honesty when they have been reared in dishonesty, dictated by circumstances over which they have no control? How can they come to see their place in the world in terms of a contribution to society when they barely manage to keep alive by living off the crumbs of the world around them?

Time was when there was no such thing as a domesticated animal. And take away the civilization of man in which domestic animals live and it would be no time at all before there would again be no domestic animals.

Take civilization away from a human being and much the same thing happens to him. Take from him the association with people of learning, take from him all sense of values, deprive him of health, happiness and love, never offer him the advantages of schooling and let him live with all the other ills of poverty and he is not about to rise above his circumstances by himself. How many of us would ever have made it without the help of such fundamental things as a happy home life, warm clothes, nutritious food, good health and adequate schooling?

We shouldn't kid ourselves; there isn't a man alive who has "made" it all on his own. And again we find the error as we look at help only in terms of money. One would think that the White House analysis of the moon race as reported by Mr. Childs might cause us to wonder where are the humanities that in the past have breathed life and meaning into this nation.

tions of rates, financing and territories, where they may present their varying positions for judgment. What alternative do they have when real conflicts of interest arise than to seek aid of counsel and, that failing, then to repair to court? The failure of the state to deal adequately with an obvious fault is contributory to the lamentable condition of legal warfare.

If there was more good will between the agencies a score of years ago it was because on their infancy each had enough running room to avoid conflict. Growth has ended that happy condition.

Care should be taken to distinguish between the principle of public power and grievous symptoms which are not an indictment of the principle, but rather of an inadequate law.

An Unfortunate Situation

State Game Commission Director Mel Steen is reported to have told the Nebraska Council of Sportsmen Clubs that the expiration of contracts on soil bank lands in Nebraska poses a threat to the state's pheasant population. As these soil bank lands now stand, they are thick with grasses that form a natural habitat for pheasants.

The breeding and nesting places for pheasants would certainly be reduced if these lands were again placed in active cultivation. Adding to the difficulty is the fact that soil bank lands are only one part of the problem. Many other areas that were once natural areas for pheasants have also been eliminated in the salvation of marginal land for crop purposes.

The only trouble with Steen's warning is that it probably will be of little value.

The Outside Hand

Vernon Taylor, of the Nebraska Liquor Commission, says he is in the dark about an Iowa report that Nebraska tavern operators have contributed $25,000 toward a fund being used to block liquor-by-the-drink measures in the Iowa legislature. If there is any proof in it he considers it a very serious matter. And indeed it is.

Foreign Agents In Political Action

WASHINGTON — Senate probes digging into foreign agents have unearthed some interesting political contributions. One is a $10,000 contribution from the Somoza brothers of Nicaragua to John F. Kennedy's election campaign in 1960.

President Luis Somoza and his brother Anastasio, secretary of defense, are the men who for years have dominated Nicaragua.

The contribution was made by Frank Berry, a registered Nicaraguan agent, and as far as can be ascertained, Kennedy didn't know anything about it. Berry also made a contribution of around $1,500 to the election of Rep. Dan Flood, D-Pa., an able and aggressive congressman who has been a long-time booster for a canal through Nicaragua.

Berry comes from Wilkes Barre, Flood's home town, and the congressman said he had no idea that Berry was a Nicaraguan agent or that there was any connection between the contribution and the proposed Nicaraguan canal. He had known Berry as a member of the White House Secret Service staff in Truman's day.

"I've been for the Nicaraguan canal for years," he said, when queried by this column. "I've long thought we needed an alternate canal, and that we should build it across Nicaragua because of the uncertain political situation in Panama."

As a top-ranking member of the House Armed Forces Committee, Flood has been studying the means of building an alternate canal, and he says the Atomic Energy Commission has been working on plans to use atomic energy to dredge out a harbor in Alaska as a test to see whether atomic energy could be used to blast a canal through Nicaragua.

William Jennings Bryan as Secretary of State under Woodrow Wilson, negotiated a treaty with Nicaragua in 1914 giving the United States the right to build a sea-level canal across Central America at this point.

One foreign agent who, in contrast to many, has been begging Sen. Bill Fulbright, D-Ark., to let him appear as a witness, is Gen. Julius Klein of Chicago. Klein, who served under Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the Rainbow Division in World War I, is a representative of the West German government and adviser to Chancellor Adenauer. He keeps away from propaganda or lobbying, does most of his work interpreting U.S. public opinion and U.S. political trends for the guidance of the German government. The State Department considers him an asset. . . . One man who went out of his way to obey the Foreign Registration Act and got hurt as a result is William Kling, CBS film supervisor who was planning to do some travel documentaries of Spain for Inter-Public, a subsidiary of McCann Erickson. Even though he was only to shoot travelogues in Spain, he leaned over backward to comply with the law. Then the deal fell through—after he had registered.

No Doubt About Rockefeller Aims

WASHINGTON — The annual flood of Lincoln's birthday oratory finds Gov. Nelson Rockefeller out in the open and running hard for the Republican nomination for president. Rockefeller thinks the honor is worth having and is ready to work for it.

Participants in his many conferences here last week end reinforce the impression that he has still to fix upon a grand strategy for achieving the nomination, much less the election. Rather, he seemed to shuttle between the various factions of the party while taking care to commit himself to none.

By design, he noticeably steered clear of associating himself with the Cuban charges so freely made by Sen. Kenneth Keating of New York. This, he confided to some political associates, was because he felt he did not want to deal with national issues until late spring.

When they next picked up the newspapers they found him attacking the Kennedy handling of the Atlantic alliance in a rousing Chicago speech. Certainly he needs to impress the Midwest with his fighting spirit; all party soundings show that his nomination appeals less there than in other parts of the country.

Inquiring politicians got the answer that the Rockefeller staff, which includes some extremely able operators and idea men, felt something sturdy was necessary for Chicago. But the effect, after the careful tightrope act here, was contradictory.

It is a question also whether critics of the President's hard line with our allies have chosen the popular side. Many observers think it long overdue.

A challenger in politics, particularly of the President, normally does better when he leaves the hatchet work to others. There is no dearth of such volunteers in the congressional minorities these days. The danger, in fact, is that they will overdo it.

As of now, Rockefeller faces no serious threat to his presidential hopes from within his own party. Sen. Barry Goldwater, acknowledged leader of the conservatives, continues to assert that he will run only for reelection to the Senate. There is no sign whatever that he does not mean it.

There is no Goldwater organization in being, and he has made none of the far-reaching speaking plans which are vital to national ambition. His colleagues cannot detect that the senator shows any taste for the kind of operations necessary to the making of a president.

Hardly a peep has come out of Harrisburg, Pa., and Lansing, Mich., where new Govs. William Scranton and George Romney have settled down to labors new to them and weighted with toil and trouble. They will both find it difficult to escape from their states for some time to come.

U.S. Defense Is Eagle-Eyed

OMAHA—The Russians put a lot of aircraft in the sky over the Chukchi peninsula of Siberia one day last week. An American Air Force officer, watching the flights on an incredible screen at SAC's underground headquarters near here, said: "Looks like they got their monthly gas ration today."

The Siberian-based planes were also duly noted, and dismissed as unimportant, on screens at NORAD, North American Air Defense, Colorado Springs, and in the war room of the Pentagon.

If they had been bombers and changed their course to fly across the Bering strait toward Alaska, the screen would have revealed that instantly. A host of reactions would have become ignited, commands given over a world-wide communications network, and in a few minutes supersonic jets would have begun screeching aloft to intercept.

Russia, firm foe of most "inspection" plans, actually is being inspected day and night by a fantastic array of radar scanners each the size of a football field. What they detect in the sky over the U.S.S.R. is automatically transmitted to SAC, among other commands, automatically digested and assayed by electronic computers, and the information is passed along in visual form for human consideration and judgment.

The machine—if such a farflung miracle of science can be called a machine—can differentiate between a bomber and a ballistic missile. While we stood before its screen there sounded an alarming buzzer and the figure "1" popped up in a small frame to the side of the screen.

"One of the 'dishes' at Thule (Greenland) picked that up," a SAC man said noncommittally.

"Could be a meteorite shower," he said. "Or a satellite, or a piece of the junk that stays in orbit after a satellite or manned capsule is launched. The machine can spot anything in space as large as a 4-inch bolt. You should have seen how agitated it became the first time it picked up a rising moon!"

"Anyway, we've had to build selectivity into it. Watch the dial now. The '1' is still there. That probably means that it is not a Soviet ICBM. They'd be sent in salvo, and the machine would not only count them for us as they rose from their pads but also tell us just how many minutes we had left before the first one impacted here—and then it would draw a little yellow circle around that precise part of U.S. or Canada where the warhead would hit, twenty or twenty-five minutes later."

The "1" suddenly blinked out, and an "all clear" buzzer sounded.

"Whatever it was, the machine rejected it," the officer said. "It had studied its trajectory and decided that since it was not headed this way it was not a menace."

Well under way toward completion at SAC headquarters is an even more astounding "machine." This one, called either SAC Command and Control System or 465L, is a multi-million-dollar investment in "reaction time." It will add a few precious minutes to the fleeting time a SAC commander would be given to make or carry out a decision in the event of impending enemy attack.

Into it, around the clock, AF bases and missile sites everywhere will pour complete information on the readiness and position of every bomber and ICBM. The machine will store the information and, on order, deliver it immediately to the commander in the form of 20 foot tall "slides" on the wall of the command center. In any great war it would tell him exactly which targets had been destroyed, which needed more bombs, and where he could get them quickly.

It would also tell him the position of the Polaris fleet, and carriers with nuclear-weaponed fighters. And when to hold off a missile attack on a target until planes bombing it get out of range.

Elsewhere is SAC's sleepless control center, which could only be destroyed by a direct H-bomb hit (at which time supplementary or air-borne headquarters would take over) are the famous red and yellow telephones. The red one's lines reach into every SAC position around the world. The yellow one's lines extend to the White House and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

"How about that black one there?" I asked.

The man sighed, and said, "That's the one Gen. Power uses to call his wife and say he won't be able to get home for dinner."

Cuban Missiles

Lake Worth, Fla.

The elaborate aerial photographic display on television recently by the Defense Department was particularly impressive in one respect—that is, the Reds overdid the thing of trying to put on a convincing show of getting the offensive missiles out of Cuba.

They went to such unnecessary extremes in accentuating the obvious as to arouse suspicions that they were hiding something. As an example, why tear down those newly erected barracks, with 17,000 Russian soldiers remaining in Cuba? Or bulldoze the sites?

And just now a former Cuban diplomat has bolstered those suspicions from a nearby television situation. He says reliable sources close to Castro report there are 42 large missiles in Cuba ready to fire on six hours notice, while many more of the same are due to arrive from Russia about February 12.

But along comes President Kennedy later in the day in a news conference declaring that even though remotely possible there are some long-range missiles in Cuba hidden underground, they would certainly be detected by U.S. surveillance planes during the necessary process of being set up for firing.

Leave it to Castro!

Staff Needed

Lincoln, Neb.

Twice in recent weeks similar statements have been made about the Nebraska governor and his control over state spending.

When Gov. Morrison proposed his budget, the comment was that he did not have the staff to study the budget thoroughly and therefore his recommendations could not carry much weight. Now, when the Budget Committee considers a bill to give the Legislature instead of the governor veto power over state agencies' bud-ing and buying of land, the comment again is that the governor has neither the staff nor the appropriations to analyze the building needs of state agencies in the same manner as the Budget Committee.

It is time someone put a stop to this ring-around-the-rosy argument. The Budget Committee voted itself a fiscal analyst but none for the governor. Now they say the lack of such personnel is reason to transfer executive duties to the Legislature. The time has come for the state of Nebraska to provide its governor with the staff he needs to carry out executive functions so that arguments about transfer of such functions to the Legislature will stop.

The Legislature probably needs more staff than it has even now, and certainly the governor does. But the answer to our problems in the area of fiscal controls is for the Legislature to give the governor the staff he needs, rather than adding fiscal staff to the Legislature and transferring executive functions to keep that staff busy.

Increased Demands
Lincoln, Neb.
If the 43 members of the State Unicameral were in proper proportion to the existing property and population when it was created in 1935, then the proposed increase of only six members to a total of 49 would be an inadequate and insufficient membership to properly protect and preserve legislative representation in the same ratio or proportion as existed in 1935.

Since that time our real estate taxes have more than doubled, many new taxes have been added, and the population of many of our cities has doubled. In the Lincoln area, as an example, the population has increased from 75,000 to over 150,000, or more than double. To preserve the same ratio of legislative representation as existed 30 years ago, Unicameral membership should be increased to at least 75 or 80 members. On the basis of increased taxes and population, we should have three more senators just for the Lincoln and Lancaster County area.

Further, a workable formula should be enacted to provide for additional senators as the taxable assets grow, the population explodes and new legislative problems arise.

Sunday Opening
Lincoln, Neb.
I agree with the signs put on the Safeway stores, although I had nothing to do with making them. I still prefer buying my groceries at a home-owned store that will deliver for me. This is worth the few extra cents on each item. I've traded at the Safeway and other chain stores, but if they become money-grabbers even on Sunday, they can have it. If a person can't get all the groceries he needs by nine o'clock Saturday night, he doesn't need them very badly.

If they are going to open on Sundays, I doubt very much if the Safeway or any other stores are doing so with their clerks' approval, unless they intend to have a different staff on Sundays. The helpers are just human, too, and can stand so much.

There are always the extremes. Many places thought they were having to work too much, so closed on Saturdays. Now some are open all seven days of the week.

Beer Tax Boost Still Uncertain

... REVENUE MEN'S VOTE-MUSTERING MANEUVERS FAIL

Just what the Revenue Committee is going to recommend to the Legislature on increasing the excise tax on beer remained unknown Tuesday after none of a series of maneuvers by several committee members could muster a majority vote.

First a motion was made to raise the present tax from 4 to 7 cents a gallon, but it lost when it picked up only two votes.

Then an attempt to up the tax from 4 to 6 cents received only 3 votes, one short of the number required. Finally a move to advance the measure to the floor with its provision for increasing the tax from 4 to 8 cents died for lack of a second.

Second Failure

It was the second time in recent days that efforts to get the bill, LB9, moved out of committee failed.

An amendment has been approved under which the tax on liquor would be hiked from $1.20 to $1.60 per gallon. Wine taxes would remain unchanged.

In other action Tuesday, the committee agreed to have Chairman J. W. Burbach draw up an amendment to the cigarette tax bill, LB10, which would also tax all other tobacco products, with the tax being paid by the wholesaler.

The measure would boost the tax on cigarettes from 4 to 6 cents a package.

Burbach presented figures compiled by Dr. Jack Rodgers, director of research for the Legislative Council, which showed how much some states are collecting in cigar taxes. Rodgers said Alabama took in $619,000 in one year; Georgia, $638,815; Oklahoma, $1,370,000; Tennessee, $317,057; and Virginia, $483,892.

10% Tax

The amendment will call for a 10% tax on the wholesaler's price to the retailer.

A total of $6,524,448 was realized from Nebraska's 4-cents-per-package tax on cigarettes last year.

Burbach said he is sure that both LB9 and LB10 will eventually be reported out of committee. An effort will be made to bracket them until the Legislature has disposed of the state income tax bill.

The committee also:

—killed by a 5-0 vote LB308 which would have provided for making a house assessable immediately upon occupancy.
—advanced 7-0 LB429 which would change registration fees for farm trailers so those with a capacity of more than 5,000 pounds would be taxed at $1 for each additional 1,000 pounds capacity, up to a maximum of 5,000 pounds.
—killed 4-3 LB326 which proposed publication by the county treasurer of the names of delinquent taxpayers of personal property.
There was considerable opposition to the bill from county officials, but it had the support of the Nebraska Press Association.
Several county officials said the bill was nothing more than an attempt "to embarrass people into paying their taxes."

Higher Standards For Real Estate Brokers Moved

The Banking, Commerce and Insurance Committee Tuesday voted 7-0 to advance to general file a bill seeking to raise real estate broker qualifications in Nebraska.

The measure, LB397, requires that an applicant for a real estate broker's license must have a year's experience as a licensed real estate salesman, or furnish satisfactory proof of equivalent experience or shall have passed a course of at least 60 credit hours with a major in real estate at an accredited school.

Also advanced 7-0 by the committee was LB372. The bill authorizes trustees to invest in corporation bonds with only one high bond rating and to permit investment of the cash proceeds of the sale of authorized securities in trust.

Senator To OK Change 'If It Aids Education'

Sen. Ross Rasmussen of Hooper Tuesday said that he will accept Sen. Elvin Adamson's proposed amendments to LB184 if he finds that they "support the special education program, rather than jeopardize it."

Rasmussen said he will not know the full extent of Adamson's proposals until he has had an opportunity to study how they affect the bill.

LB184, introduced by Rasmussen, would provide state education aid at a per-pupil rate of $300 for the educable mentally handicapped and $600 for the physically handicapped.

The bill was held for further debate following Adamson's presentation of proposed amendments. See Story on Page 16.

Brand Fees Hike Draws 7-0 Okay

A bill to increase brand registration, renewal and transfer fees drew a 7-0 okay Tuesday from the Legislature's Agriculture Committee. Two other brand bills similarly sought and supported by Secretary of State Frank Marsh also received 7-0 advancement to the Legislative floor.

LB443, introduced by Sens. George C. Gerdes of Alliance and Don McGinley of Ogallala, would increase the brand registration fee from $2 to $3; the renewal fee from $2 to $3; and the transfer fee from $1.50 to $3.

Other bills advanced after drawing no opposition:

—LB431, by Sen. Elvin Adamson of Nelnet, clarifying that brands approved by the secretary of state shall be on the shoulder, ribs or hip.
—LB430, by Adamson, making proof of ownership of branded livestock permissive rather than mandatory.
Killed on a 5-1 vote was a bill heard earlier, LB423, which would have had the effect of reducing the egg inspection fee for some retailers.

Rasmussen told the Legislature that local school districts were "entitled to $532,000 in state aid" last year, but received only $315,000 on a pro-rata division.

LB184 is intended to obligate the state for the full amount of authorized state aid.

Full Obligation

"The intent is that the state will meet its full obligation," Rasmussen said.

"Nebraska is unique," the lawmaker declared, "in that we say we will support this program adequately—but we don't pay the bill."

Rasmussen asked: "Are the children entitled to this amount, and if they are, shall we provide the money or see what kind of a bargain we can drive?"

School Help Could Lower Lincoln Tax

The state aid to education bill before the Legislature could reduce the Lincoln school district tax levy by 18 mills.

Superintendent Steven Watkins told the school board Tuesday that under LB 678, Lincoln's total state aid would be $3,762,556, based on the 1962 assessed valuation and school enrollment.

This is the equivalent of 19.46 mills, he said, pointing out that the general fund is now 37.86.

The bill provides that school districts may receive from the School Foundation Fund an amount equal to $40 for each elementary pupil and $60 per secondary pupil.

This "foundation" aid would amount to $1,240,660, based on 1962 figures.

Additionally, the district would qualify for "equalization" aid of $2,521,896, under the bill's formula.

The bill, introduced by Sens. Warner of Waverly and Clifton Foster of Bradshaw, is expected to reach committee hearing sometime in April.

Clare McPhee School To Rise Near Capitol

The Lincoln Board of Education Tuesday named the proposed new Capitol School for the late Clare McPhee, who served as the school principal from 1910 to 1945.

Serving the Lincoln public schools for a total of 48 years, the late Miss McPhee taught at Prescott from 1899 to 1906, was teaching principal at Belmont from 1906 to 1908 and principal at Hayward from 1908 to 1910.

The new facility, which will completely replace the present Capitol School at 821 So. 16th, is scheduled for completion by the fall of 1964.

The school will be designed for joint use as a Lincoln elementary school and a laboratory training school by the University of Nebraska.

The board also approved preliminary drawings for the addition to Lake View School, and Architect Woodrow Hull was directed to proceed with working drawings and specifications.

The structure, scheduled for completion by the second semester of 1963-64 school year, will include 5 classrooms, a kindergarten unit, multipurpose room, stage and kitchen in addition to office facilities.

In other action the board awarded the general contract for the construction of Riley School to M. W. Anderson Construction Co. whose bid with alteration accepted by the board was $373,007.

Wentz Plumbing & Heating was awarded the mechanical contract for $108,593, and ABC Electric the electrical contract for $524,532.

Home Search Rules Apply To Cars Also

Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer told Lincoln police Tuesday that the same regulations apply to searching an automobile as to searching a home.

Meyer was one of the speakers at the department's annual training school.

In discussing laws governing search and seizure, Meyer explained that there are 3 instances in which a search may be made:

- with the consent of the individual involved.
- with a lawful search warrant.
- while making a lawful arrest.

Fire Chief Roscoe Benton, another speaker, said he feels the police and fire departments are now cooperating "as never before."

The school is being conducted throughout the week at the University of Nebraska College of Law.

Belmont Center 1962 Attendance Went Up 3,700

Belmont Community Center had a total of 38,869 in attendance at 1962 meetings and events, an increase of 3,700 over the previous year.

Director Chet Dill reported at the annual meeting that enrollment in 1962 was up about 30 to a total of 877 persons.

During the year, 78 special events were held, attended by 5,000 persons. Fourteen outside groups used the center's facilities during the year.

Highlight of the 1962 event schedule was the "Friendship 7 Carnival" held in November and attended by more than 400 persons.

Julius Humann, Lincoln schools guidance and research director, addressed the group on "Delinquency Starts With Parents."

New officers installed at the meeting were Leroy Boden, president; Charles Lee, first vice president; Mrs. Burgess Hester, second vice president; Anne Rolofson, secretary, and Ralph Wiegert, treasurer.

Vigil Becomes Wake

... FOR THOSE WHO WAITED AT AIRPORT

By WILLIAM CONWAY

Chicago (AP) — Word of the wreckage of a Northwest Orient Airliner had been sighted turned a vigil into a wake at O'Hare International Airport Tuesday night.

The door of the vigil room, guarded by a policeman, opened a bit, and through the door came the thin wail of a woman's voice: "she loved life so much."

There was no way of telling for sure who the lamented "she" was.

People Gathered

Since midafternoon people had gathered at the airfield to greet friends and relatives expected on a nonstop jet flight from Miami. The greeters scanned the arrival board at the Northwest counter.

The 15th entry, spelled out in white letters against a brown background, read: 705 Miami 3:05 p.m.

That third column where estimated time of arrival usually is posted was blank.

The airline's station and service staffs circulated among them and advised them that Flight 705 that left Miami for a nonstop hop to Chicago but was unreported.

Soon those who were waiting and others who arrived at the terminal later were taken to a room on the mezzanine floor of the terminal to begin a tense vigil.

They knew that the jet was missing. But they sat mostly in silence.

When the door swung open occasionally and newsmen peered into the small, hot chamber, they could see a woman and a girl weeping softly. They saw some of the others running their tongues over dry lips.

The hours began to pass. Airline officials brought up trays of coffee in paper cups.

Among those sitting, standing and waiting were Rubin Chaplik, muscular man in a pullover sweater and white shirt; his wife Miriam, and two of their children, Elyanne, 17, and Ivy, 4; also Mrs. Shirley Linn and her sons, Edward, 13, and Larry, 9.

They had come out to welcome Mrs. Fanny Lebedow of Chicago, who had started back from a 3 weeks vacation in Florida. Mrs. Lebedow is the mother of Mrs. Chaplik and Mrs. Linn.

Ed Kennedy, 21, of Chicago, had come out to pick up Mrs. Sal Smigiel of suburban Niles.

Mrs. Smigiel's husband, Anton, a police judge in Niles, flew in from Florida on a Delta airliner. He told reporters that he and his wife have a policy of not traveling on the same planes. He was accompanied by Joe Srodulski of Park Ridge, whose wife, Rose, was reported to be aboard the Northwest Orient plane with Mrs. Smigiel. With Kenny was Mrs. Smigiel's daughter, Judy.

Watched, Waited

William Melahn, 30, of Crystal Lake, Ill., a man with the size and build of a football terminal. His parents, Mr. tackle, waited and watched by himself in the lobby of the terminal. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Melahn, had boarded the missing Northwest Orient plane in Miami to return to their home in Cary, Ill., after 3 weeks of vacation in Lauderdale-By-The-Sea, Fla. The elder Melahn, 54, is a contractor.

The son said that his father and his mother, Beulah, 52, had been going to Florida every year for about 20 years.

At one time, a dozen or so persons joined in the anxious waiting. But two hours after the scheduled touchdown time of 3:05 p.m. CST. They began to drift away.

Mrs. Linn, a dark-haired, dark-eyed woman in blouse and slacks, betrayed her tension.

"It seems," she said, "that all you hear lately is plane crashes."

Instructed

Down in the lobby a uniformed chauffeur from a limousine livery service, stood among the array of cameras mounted on tripods. A sked why he was there, he pulled out a small piece of paper and said that he had been instructed to pick up two passengers on the plane whom he knew only as Mr. and Mrs. Rand of Kenilworth, a suburb of Chicago.

Airline officials kept the only word they had received from their company's headquarters in Minneapolis. It was simply that they had no word of the plane or the fate of the crew of eight or the 35 passengers aboard.

Darkness settled over the huge airfield and the 15th entry on the arrival board still read: 705 Miami 3:05 p.m. (blank)

Legation To Withdraw

London (AP) — Britain was ordered to withdraw its legation from Yemen within 7 days, the Foreign Office announced.

Foreign Schools Differ From U.S.

A panel of 3 students and 3 professors from foreign countries compared education in the United States with that of their respective countries Tuesday in connection with International Week at the University of Nebraska.

Bill Cawood of Pretoria, South Africa, pointed out that with Negroes outnumbering whites 3 to 1 in his country, schools are segregated accordingly.

He explained that there are Negro, English and African (Dutch) schools with only universities having both Negro and white lecturers.

Dr. Shin Oikawa of Japan noted the differences in difficulty of entrance examinations and that less than one-tenth of the entrants are admitted to universities.

Very few students drop out of classes, he said, and mentioned his "amazement" at the number of NU students who are married.

Jackie Eaglesman, a student from Bolivia who has attended Lincoln schools for 6 years, explained that school attendance is not required in her native country.

Most of Bolivia's schools are private Catholic schools, and none are coeducational, Miss Eaglesman said.

She explained that high subjects in 3 years and all school consists of studying 14 students must pass tests before entering universities regardless of their high school grades.

The difference between American and European philosophies of education rests on the democratic principles on which this country is founded, according to an agronomy professor from India.

Dr. Schivcharan S. Maan pointed out that the European belief is not to educate the masses as in the United States but to educate a few who could lead the country.

Yousef Mesheia, a student from Libya, explained that high school students must decide between science or literature sections for a 3-year course.

He noted that college differs greatly from the U.S. since students are paid to go to college and very few women attend colleges or universities.

Brains, Beauty

Those who do, he said, "either are extremely intelligent or of a low degree of beauty."

Dr. Franklin W. Houn, an NU political science professor from China, explained how communism has affected the educational system in his country.

Professors must have all lectures approved before presenting them and "non-communist lectures are transferred into communist ones," Dr. Houn also pointed out that students are not admitted to colleges and universities "until they prove their political beliefs."

Capital Ins. Reaches Peak Of Premiums

Capital Mutual Insurance Co. reached the highest premium total of its history, President John F. Zimmer Jr. reported to stockholders.

Premiums increased by 8% over 1961, with $1,722,181 written during 1962.

Capital Mutual operates in the states of Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Colorado and Wyoming.

Favorable Future

Zimmer added that future prospects for the firm are favorable.

Dr. Curtis M. Elliott, professor of economics and insurance at the University of Nebraska, was elected to the board of directors.

Reappointed to the board were John F. Zimmer Jr., Wilton Van Sickle, R. J. Easley, J. Phillip Mahoney and John F. Zimmer III.

Company officials reappointed were John F. Zimmer Jr., president-treasurer; Wilton Van Sickle, executive vice president; John F. Zimmer III, secretary; James G. Zimmer, vice president; Glenn L. Barry, vice president, and James R. Jones, general counsel.

Cutback Of 40,000 U.S. Army Forces In Europe Is Planned

Washington (UPI) — The Defense Department plans to cut U.S. Army forces in Europe by 40,000 men, it was learned Tuesday.

Most of the reductions probably will be made over the next year and, barring some big new crisis, the entire cut is expected to be completed in about two years.

Both rear area troops and one or more combat units are involved in the cutback, which is being planned at a time when allies are being pressed to increase manpower in their NATO-assigned forces.

Information on the planned slash was obtained in the face of a vague official disclaimer that troop reductions were presently in prospect.

The Pentagon public information office said, "We know of no planned reduction of U.S. military personnel in Europe at this time."

When the cut is completed, the U.S. Army in Europe will be back to about the manpower strength that prevailed when President Kennedy took office and before U.S. forces were increased in the face of the Berlin crisis in late 1961.

At that time, 40,000 troops including an armored cavalry regiment were sent to the continent, swelling the Army's size there to about 273,000.

Commitment

Including Air Force and Navy personnel, the United States now has 400,000 military men committed to Europe along with more than 345,000 dependents.

One reason for the impending cut is to reduce the U.S. dollar flow to Europe and help this country in its balance of payments position.

When the reduction is made, the U.S. Army in Europe will be somewhat smaller in manpower — but by no means in firepower — than the West German ground force which now has 245,000 men and is building toward a planned ceiling of 350,000.

French Army

The French army is building toward 500,000 men, according to the unofficial Institute for Strategic Studies in London. Not all the French forces are assigned to NATO as are the German.

Defense Department plans for scaling down U.S. ground forces on the continent coincide with intensive new preparations to urge manpower increases in European forces.

While NATO now has the long-sought goal of 28 1-3 divisions in central Europe, including 5 American, several are well below the manpower strength called for. The number of fully effective units probably is fewer than 23.

Want Increase

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara is expected to be adamant in demanding that the European units be brought up to prescribed strength. Such increases will be his major theme, it is reported, at the spring meeting of NATO ministers in Ottawa, Canada, May 21-23.

The present outlook is that as many as 22,000 American troops may be returned home during the next year. They will come mainly from rear areas in France and elsewhere.

A final decision on whether to return an armored cavalry regiment apparently will be made later on.

AIRMAN MUST REDUCE

The Air Force is giving Edward J. Maquire, 34, of Holyoke, Miss., 3 months to take off 32 overweight pounds. A veteran of 17 years' military service, Maquire was notified last month to trim down to 193 from his present 225 pounds. Tuesday the Air Force notified Maquire he has until mid-May to show a significant improvement in weight reduction. Maquire is shown with his wife, Abbie, in their home.

Nine Qualify In State Drug Exam

Nine persons have qualified for Nebraska licenses as pharmacists as the result of examinations given in Omaha Jan. 28. Director R. K. Kirkman of the Bureau of Examining Boards reported Tuesday.

The successful applicants include Robert V. Atkins of Wichita, Kan.; Margaret Flory, Jerome P. Janousek and Roger A. Prochaska, all of Lincoln; Sister M. Clarice Gentrup and Ernest Vincentini, Jr., both of Omaha; Arthur G. Halfide of Chadron; Joan E. Phillips of Bridgeport, and Kenneth R. Sharp of Gretna. Additionally, Donald A. Rave of Norfolk was licensed by reciprocity from North Dakota.

Seven persons have qualified for Nebraska funeral directing licenses, Kirkman said. They include Richard Eugene Hovendick, Beatrice; Phillip Arlin Huetter, Sioux City, Iowa; Richard Arthur Joliffe, Scottsbluff; Stephen Dwight O'Brien, Kearney; George Burton Peterson, Glenwood, Iowa; Jerry Gene Turner, Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Dwight Kenneth Wasler, Griswold, Iowa.

Five have qualified for Nebraska embalming licenses: Raymond Harrison Crow, Torrington, Wyo., by reciprocity from Wyoming; Joseph Vincent di Silverio, Omaha, by reciprocity from New York; Phillip Arlin Huetter, Sioux City, by reciprocity from Iowa; Robert James Taylor, Plattsmouth, and Dwight Kenneth Wasler, Griswold, Iowa, by reciprocity from Iowa.

Examinations in embalming and funeral directing were given in Omaha Jan. 22-23.

Consumers Ad Spending $119,000

Consumers Public Power District said Tuesday that it spent $118,696 in 1962 for advertising in promoting the use of electricity, or one-half of one per cent of the district's 1962 revenue.

Nationally, General Manager Ray Schacht of Columbus stated, private utilities average nearly 5 times more expenditure for advertising, based on Internal Revenue Service tax returns, or 2.44% of sales.

"Advertising for CPPD is necessary if the publicly-owned district is to be a going concern that can aggressively compete with the private companies which sell natural gas and other heating fuels, such as propane, butane and coal," he said.

Helps Promotion

"Our advertising budget helps promote the growth of load which is necessary if electrical rates are to be kept low.

"There is nothing mysterious about our advertising budget as recent publicity might imply. We spend where we can get results. This is the way of the business world.

"Along with efficiency of operation, proper advertising has been a big factor in giving our customers lower rates for their electric service."

Schacht said Consumers is operating the same properties, excluding Sheldon Station, with 115 fewer employees than it had 10 years ago. Sheldon Station has added 74 new employees.

CPPD's expenditures for its industrial development department, Schacht said, were $57,605 in 1962. That sum also included public relations.

Capitol Newsman Richards, Native Of Lincoln, Dies

Washington (AP) — Robert W. Richards, 62, chief of the Copley Press Washington bureau, died Monday night two days after being stricken by a blood clot in the brain.

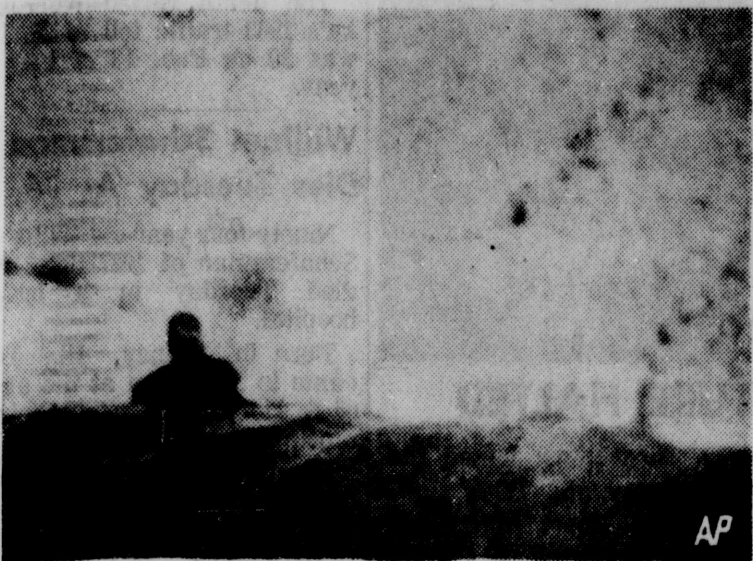

He had undergone surgery for removal of the clot, and as late as Monday had been reported improving. He died about 1 p.m. in Georgetown Hospital.

Funeral Services will be held at 11 a.m. EST Thursday at the Everly-Wheatly Funeral Home, 1500 W. Braddock Road, Alexandria, Va.

Richards, a native of Lincoln, Neb., had been in the Copley newspaper chain 41 years, starting in 1922 on the Aurora, Ill., Beacon-News. He opened the Copley Washington bureau after World War II, during which he served two years in the Office of Strategic Services. He covered the end of the war in the Pacific.

He was a veteran of political campaign reporting and a close friend of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Surviving are the widow, the former Ida Herron, and two daughters, Jeanne Richards, an art professor at the University of Nebraska, and Mrs. Susan Motley of Dallas.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN . . . swept over falls.

Victim Of Plunge Won't Be Found Until Spring

Niagara Falls, Ont. (AP) — Police said Tuesday the body of a man swept over the Horseshoe Falls Sunday probably will not be recovered until spring.

The body apparently was swept under thick ice covering the lower Niagara River.

The man, believed to be a Canadian, has not been identified.

One witness said he entered the river in rapids about 20 feet above the Canadian Falls.

The witnesses included Dr. Thomas Stim of Amherst, a Buffalo suburb, who recorded the man's plunge over the falls on 8mm colored motion picture film. Black and white photographs, made from the movie film, were made available by Stim Tuesday to the Associated Press.

The pictures show the man was bald and clad in heavy, winter clothing. His face was not shown.

45,000 Die In Accidents Other Than Auto In '62

Chicago (AP)—Accidents other than those involving automobiles cost 45,000 lives in 1962, the National Safety Council reported Tuesday.

The toll represents an increase of 3% over 1961 when 43,500 persons died as the result of accidents in homes and public places.

Another 6.3 million persons were injured last year in accidents that left them disabled beyond the day of the accident, the council said.

The monetary loss to the nation from both fatal and non-fatal accidents last year was estimated by the council at $2.1 billion, including wage losses, medical expenses and costs of insurance.

Of the deaths attributed to accidents, 28,000, up 4% from 1961, occurred in homes. Fatal mishaps in public places, not counting motor vehicle accidents, accounted for the other 17,000, an increase of 3%.

Falls accounted for more than two-fifths of fatalities in the home, fires and burns for more than one-fifth.

Falls and drownings not involving boats each was blamed for one-fourth of the fatalities in public places. Transportation accidents involving rail, air, water and other means, except highway vehicles, accounted for one-sixth of the 17,000 total.

Airplane accidents took 1,200 lives, most of them victims of crashes of small, privately owned planes. Four accidents involving commercial airliners accounted for 138 deaths.

The toll from highway accidents last year was 41,000, almost equaling the number of deaths from all other types of accidents.

Post Debutante Gets Probation

Boston (AP) — Post debutante Suzanne Clift, 21, was released on 10 years probation Tuesday after she admitted killing her European-born boy friend, the father of her expected child.

She pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the gunshot death of Piero Brentani, 27, while sharing a bed with him in their Beacon Hill apartment last Oct. 1.

Miss Clift had pleaded innocent to an indictment of first degree murder, but said she would admit the killing if the charge were reduced to manslaughter.

Superior Court Judge Lewis Goldberg permitted the lesser charge after a 3-day hearing in which psychiatrists pictured the petite former debutante as the victim of a schizoid personality.

One psychiatrist, Gerald Caplan, said Miss Clift—niece of movie actor Montgomery Clift—regarded her relationship with Brentani “not as a love relationship but as an unnatural attachment to a cold and unfeeling individual who connived with her unhealthy wishes for suffering.”

Goldberg imposed one condition to the terms of the 10-year probation:

“... that you (Miss Clift) voluntarily commit yourself to the Massachusetts Mental Health Center to accept such treatment and for such time as authorities there prescribe.”

She's Happy

As her attorney, Claude B. Cross, left the courtroom to accompany her to the mental health center, Miss Clift told newsmen:

“I am very happy. This disposition gives me a chance to be with my baby after it comes sometime in June.”

A psychiatrist from the health center, who examined Miss Clift before the hearing, said she could be cured of her personality disorders in 3 to 5 years.

Brentani, son of an Italian father and a German mother, was in Boston as an electronics engineer when he met Miss Clift late in 1960.

Began Seduction

Cross said it was during the summer of 1961 that Brentani “began to seduce this girl.”

The attorney continued: “Miss Clift asked me to say nothing harsh in this courtroom about Piero Brentani. She loved him then and she still loves him.”

On the night of the slaying, Cross said Brentani went to bed at 9 or 9:30.

He said Miss Clift turned on the radio and listened to the opera “Don Giovanni.”

Brentani awoke in time to hear the last half hour of the opera — the story of a Don Juan who made a practice of seducing women.

Couldn't Sleep

Cross said:

“My client couldn't sleep. She had tried suicide before and she had a pistol in bed with her. Brentani didn't know about the gun. He had his back to her and she was on her stomach.”

“She looked down the 18-inch barrel of the gun for a long time as it pointed at her forehead. Then it went off. The bullet struck Brentani in the head ... Miss Clift doesn't remember pulling the trigger or hearing the shot.”

In arguments for the state, Asst. Dist. Atty. Angelo Morello said:

“An appraisal of the evidence shows premeditation may not be established to the satisfaction of a jury. I doubt a single shot constitutes extreme atrocity. There may be doubt she engaged in a crime punishable by life in prison. It could be she decided to shoot him (Brentani) ... to prevent his fluttering like a butterfly from one petal to another.”

Registration begins at noon Friday at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education.

Odiorne is director of the Bureau of Industrial Relations at the University of Michigan.

Tanker Search Called Off For Atlantic Area

Miami (UPI) — The Coast Guard called off the Atlantic phase of its search for the missing tanker marine Sulphur Queen Tuesday, but kept 4 planes scanning the southern reaches of the Gulf of Mexico.

The 524-foot vessel and its crew of 39 mysteriously dropped from sight last week on a routine run between Beaumont, Tex., and Norfolk, Va.

In its hold the ship carried a cargo of molten sulphur, which — if exposed to the sea water — could have touched off an explosion that would have blown the ship out of the water.

Sea Lanes Combed

Planes and surface ships have combed the sea lanes for 6 days hunting for anything that would give a clue to the ship's fate.

Authorities Tuesday became convinced that such clues were not to be found in the Atlantic, and ordered searches to concentrate on the gulf from the Yucatan Peninsula eastward along the north coast of Cuba.

The planes, flying out of Coast Guard stations at Miami and St. Petersburg, Fla., were directed to stay 30 miles offshore of Fidel Castro's island.

State Department spokesman Lincoln White repeated Tuesday that the Cubans have promised to forward any information they get on the ship. But he added: “We still have no information on the possible fate of the marine Sulphur Queen.”

Optimism Submerged By Soviets

Geneva (AP) — The Soviet Union and the United States collided Tuesday at the re-opening of the 17-nation disarmament conference. The Russians submerged a message of cautious optimism from President Kennedy by proposing the United States liquidate its nuclear deterrent force on foreign lands and seas.

U.S. and British sources denounced the Soviet proposal as a political maneuver to force the West on the defensive.

Shortly after U.S. negotiator William C. Foster read Kennedy's message, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov presented a draft East-West treaty that would leave the United States with only U.S.-based intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs) as a chief nuclear deterrent.

Abandon

The Soviet proposal would require the United States to abandon its Polaris submarine and rocket bases abroad and to bring home aircraft carriers and planes capable of delivering nuclear bombs.

Kuznetsov turned the tables on the disarmament talks which had been devoted almost exclusively to a nuclear test ban treaty as a step toward disarmament.

Both the United States and Britain went into the conference — which had been in recess since Dec. 20 — with the expressions of hope some progress could be made toward a test ban treaty.

Kennedy's message called on the participating countries to seek a safeguarded treaty that would promote “confidence and trust among nations.”

He said complete agreement still was not in easy reach but he added the “prospects seemed more encouraging than before because of the acceptance of the Soviet Union on the principle of on-site inspections.”

Kuznetsov promptly threw cold water on that by refusing to modify the Kremlin position of 2 or 3 on-site inspections on Soviet soil a year.

TWINS DEPARTURE HALTED

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower halted the premature takeoff of 4-year-old Tammy and Terry Bell, right, of Des Moines, after the National Heart Fund twins had delivered a floral valentine to Ike at his vacation home in Palm Springs, Calif. The script called for the youngsters to stay around while Eisenhower said a few words in support of the 1963 Heart Fund but they had other ideas. Two years ago a heart operation restored Terry to normal health.

Navy Will Offer Rickover Chance To Stay In Service

Washington (AP) — The Navy will offer Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover an opportunity to stay in service after retirement next year, either in his present 3-star rank or as a highly-paid civilian, it was learned Tuesday night.

Informed sources said the Navy definitely wants to retain the controversial Rickover who guided the birth and growth of the now potent atomic submarine fleet.

Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth is considering possible alternative ways of doing this, the sources said, and indicated the decision will be left to Rickover as to what he considers the best arrangement for him.

Rickover will reach the mandatory retirement age of 64 next Jan. 27.

Anticipating this, several members of Congress have started pressing for his retention on duty, possibly by special law.

A decade ago, Congressional intervention saved Rickover from being forced out of the Navy after he was twice passed over for promotion to admiral. At that time Rickover was out of step with some senior naval officers in his campaign for a nuclear navy.

The Defense Department has said only that Korth has under “active consideration” the question of Rickover's future.

However, informed sources said there is no doubt Korth wants Rickover to continue in harness.

Collision Kills Norfolk Farmer

Norfolk (AP)—Fred Alfs, 59, a Norfolk farmer, was killed Tuesday afternoon when his car and a pickup truck driven by Elvin Lesser, 48, a neighbor whose mail address is Pierce, collided at a county road intersection 11 miles northwest of Norfolk.

Alfs was driving south and Lesser was driving west.

Lesser was hospitalized at Norfolk with severe chest and other injuries. Linda Alfs, 15, riding with her father, escaped with cuts and bruises.

The death raised Nebraska's 1963 traffic toll to 26. It was 29 on Feb. 13 of last year.

William Schafersman Dies Tuesday At 94

Ninety-four-year-old William Schafersman of 1027 So. 34th died Tuesday in a local hospital.

MEMBERS SOCIETY OF LINCOLN RETAIL FLORISTS

Valentine's Day being just around the corner, a little love talk will be permitted. Until the bell rings for end of recess.

The trouble with this day is by the time you are ready to use it—mean when you get out of short pants—it begins to run into glue. I don't mean the kind you paste up with either.

Valentines cost me practically nothing in my youth.

A little flour-and-water paste. A couple of old lace napkins, the kind you put cake on. A little red paper to cut hearts out of. You were in the Valentine business.

The point is, in those days I couldn't have cared less. Any boy who would send a valentine to a GIRL, we gave him his lumps. It was considered the most sissified thing you could do. Even talking to a girl was plenty bad.

We all realized that a boy could get ambushed by these nice. Oh, they were clever! Just HAPPENING to be in the same street when you were walking home from school. Things like that.

But to send one a Valentine was a good deal like playing with dolls. (Later we all grew up and began playing with real live dolls. But why limp down memory lane?)

On Valentine's Day in those manly days, manhood was sorely tried.

You HAD to make a Valentine for your mother.

That was all right. It is understood that boys have mothers and must tolerate their whims. Like they make you carry THEIR umbrella on rainy days.

Carrying an umbrella is bad enough. Carrying a woman's umbrella—I can still remember the shame of it.

You had to make a Valentine for the teacher. Our teacher was known to us as "Old Ratsy"—her name began with "RAT" something. Naturally, she became "Old Ratsy."

She was about 35, I imagine. Old and grim and ferocious—that was our picture. Nevertheless, we gave her a Valentine. At such tender ages do we join the great con game of life.

You were also allowed to give comic valentines to other boys.

But not to girls. On a day like Valentine's Day, it was wise not to speak to any girl lest you be suspect. We all watched each other suspiciously for signs of weakness.

(We all had them but nobody would cop a plea to it.)

Now, none of this cost a thing. The school furnished the flour-and-water paste and the heavy red paper for cutting out hearts.

It was tomato-red. All our hearts look anemic. They needed iron pills.

It was a day in which Manhood hung in the balance. Boys with glasses were called "four-eyes" more liberally. Boys who carried their mothers' umbrellas were challenged to "come behind the school and fight!"

Boys with curly hair were put under the limelight of public opinion. They swore they were manly. But we told them to prove it.

Well, those days are gone, dear gluey hearts. These days we must run up a tab with the florist and a high score with the perfume shop.

We go in hock with the confectionery.

We hang debt around our necks with the expensive restaurant, the champagne salesman, the specialty shop and the ever-loving banker.

It was so much easier in the days of the little red schoolhouse and the little red cut-out heart. When our hearts were young and gay. And the gayest thing about it was the love interest was deducted. Before you even started.

It's Never Dull In Suburbia

NORTHEAST HEIGHTS

It's Wednesday already, the middle of the week, and the members of Suburbia are, no doubt, planning entertainment for the coming weekend or are recuperating from last week's activities.

Activity during the week just past seemed to flourish what with travelers, birthdays, bassinet news, luncheons, and dinners.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren W. Wilson and their daughter Anne, packed up bag and baggage and drove to Kansas City the week before last to visit Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ginther.

The Wilsons returned to Lincoln late Sunday evening.

And last Saturday the three Wilsons did some more traveling when, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Larry TeKolste, they drove to Omaha to view Cinerama.

February is certainly the month for birthdays and one of them was the cause of a celebration at the Ron Hohbein household recently.

Michael Hohbein celebrated his second anniversary with a family dinner held last Sunday. Michael's family guests included his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Wunnenberg, his uncle, Robert Wunnenberg, all of Beatrice; his paternal grandparents; Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hohbein, and their son, David, of Jansen. Joining the family circle was Mike's aunt, Miss Delores Wunnenberg of Lincoln.

The legislature is a topic of much discussion everywhere — and that includes Suburbia.

Last Friday the members of the Havelock YWCA matronettes spent several hours at the legislature which, according to Mrs. Floyd Barnett, proved to be very interesting and informative.

The group then adjourned for a buffet luncheon at Kings.

SUNNYSIDE ACRES

Babies make the world go round—and babies are what we have at Sunnyside Acres—two of them.

Mr. and Mrs. James Mertlik are the proud parents of a baby boy, Lance Shannon, who arrived on Dec. 8.

Lance's paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Emil Mertlik of Fresno, Calif. His maternal grandmother is Mrs. Charles Sinyel of Lincoln.

And another baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Krumm on Dec. 30. Jack Jr.'s maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gunn of Lincoln and his paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George Krumm, also of Lincoln.

COTNER TERRACE

More travelers during the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hubbard who motored to Omaha to visit their son and grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hersh and their little ones, Lori, Diane, and Danny.

FIENE HEIGHTS

Mrs. Stanley Schrier was hostess at a luncheon held at her home last Thursday to help initiate her almost-new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Schrier's home was completed last July and since that time Mrs. Schrier has been busy entertaining guests who have enjoyed her company, as well as her new home.

PATRICIAN HEIGHTS

A birthday which occurred Feb. 2, was that of Roxanne Waggoner, just-turned-seven, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Waggoner, who shared an anniversary with her grandmother, Mrs. C. L. Waggoner who also had a birthday recently.

The Waggoners, with Mr. and Mrs. Grover Corum, went to Jensen for a family birthday dinner.

KESSLER HEIGHTS

And of course there is always bridge club — no matter what the weather.

Mrs. Marvin L. Garber entertained two tables of card playing women at her home recently.

Those enjoying cards and dessert were Mrs. Robert Day, Mrs. James Tice, Mrs. Jack Mason, Mrs. Richard Mitchell, Mrs. Blackburn Stephens, Mrs. Raymond Suggs, and Mrs. Jeanette Dunn.

Also have news this week of a returned Suburbanite. Mrs. Roy Kirkpatrick, who came back to the face the arctic temperatures after enjoying a two week stay with relatives in Arcadia, Calif.

Good In Any Language

Mrs. Elizabeth Teachman was the official hostess on Tuesday noon at a Pennsylvania Dutch luncheon at the Havelock YWCA, one of a series on foreign cookery sponsored by the YW.

Following are recipes for her Schnitz Un Knepp, served with ham, and Shoo-Fly Pie, which she served with Schmerkase and Lot-waerick (cottage cheese and apple butter), home-made rye bread, and the traditional sweet and sour relishes.

SCHNITZ UN KNEPP (Dried Apples and Dumplings)

The Pennsylvania Dutch dry (or dehydrate) sliced sweet apples, which are called "schnitz", must be covered with water and soaked overnight before using.

ham (to serve 8 or 10)
1 qt. of dried apples
2 tablespoons of brown sugar

When apples have been soaked overnight, cover ham with cold water and boil 3 hours. Then add the apples (also the water in which they were soaked) and boil one hour more. Then add brown sugar. Now make dumplings. Drop the batter by spoonfuls into the hot broth. Put cover on kettle and cook dumplings for 18 to 20 minutes without lifting lid.

DUMPLINGS

2 cups of sifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 well-beaten egg
3 tablespoons of melted butter
¾ cup milk

Sift all dry ingredients together. Add the melted butter, beaten egg and milk to make a moist, stiff batter. Makes about 24 dumplings.

SHOO-FLY PIE

(THIS IS REALLY A CAKE baked in pie crust)

Make a liquid mixture of the following ingredients:
½ teaspoon soda dissolved in

¾ cup of boiling water
½ cup molasses
1 egg yolk (beaten well)
Make crumbs of the following ingredients:
¾ cup flour
½ cup dark brown sugar
2 T. shortening
¼ teas. salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teas. nutmeg

¼ teas. ginger

Mix dry ingredients together, then work in the shortening. Line a pie pan with pastry. Fill pastry shell with liquid and crumbs. Put crumbs on top and bake in hot oven (450 degrees) until edges of crust start to brown. Reduce heat to (350) and bake about 20 minutes more or until firm.

A March Bride-Elect

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Blake this morning are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Kay Frances, to Walter E. Mellen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lilburn L. Mellen.

The wedding will take place on March 3.

The Valentine Saga

It's not generally known, but the origins of our lovely and sentimental Valentine's Day can be traced all the way back to a pack of wolves! . . . the four-legged kind, that is.

Researchers learned that what is now our heart-holiday was not at first a day to honor the gentle Christian martyr, St. Valentine. Earlier, in pagan Rome, a feast called Lupercalia was held each year in the middle of February to pay homage to the god, Luperus, who guarded livestock and shepherds from attacks by marauding wolves. During part of the celebration, young Roman warriors drew names of young women from helmets. A girl who was thus chosen by chance became, for the following year, the sweetheart of the soldier who had picked her name . . . sort of a classical version of going steady.

When Rome became a Christian city, such goings-on were not countenanced by authorities, but the holiday was kept and changed to honor the Christian martyrs, particularly St. Valentine whose birthday fell at that time of year. The drawing also was retained as a part of the celebration, except the names picked by chance were those of saints. For a year following, the religious participant attempted to emulate the life and attributes of the saint whose name he had chosen.

As the centuries passed, the holiday remained a religious one, but it also became a day for bestowing small gifts and momentos on close friends and the girls next door. In medieval England the day took on the aspect of a contest . . . for when two people met, the first to shout, "Tis St. Valentine's Day" was entitled to receive a gift from the other person.

According to research Valentine's Day cards first appeared at the beginning of the Eighteenth Century. The oldest known card dates from 1710. It was made in Germany and bore the picture of a turtle dove, under which, written in ink, was the message: "Greet my love 1,000 times."

Until the Industrial Revolution, which made possible the mass production of cards, Valentines were an individual creation, with loving messages carefully written with a goose-quill pen. For the less imaginative, pamphlets were available entitled "Polite Valentine Writers." A loving but inarticulate swain would copy out a message appropriate to his romantic situation and to his profession or trade as well.

During the Victorian era in England, Valentine became like the furniture of that period . . . overstuffed. Lace, feathers, fringe, waxed leaves and flowers were used to decorate the oft-perfumed cards, and the sentiments expressed therein were . . . as a 10-year-old boy might say . . . just plain mushy. Comic Valentines of that era also were over-extravagant in vulgarity and insults.

By 1900, American card publishers felt that their customers were disgusted with both plushy and tawdry Valentines, and produced simple cards with messages more friendly than romantic. In the Roaring Twenties, Valentines again became decorative, but conforming to the emancipated aura of that decade, the messages were breezy rather than sentimental.

Through all the changes in style and fashion, the pictorial symbols on Valentine cards have remained constant . . . hearts, cupids, cooing birds, lovely ladies, bashful beaux. But today there is no set "style" in Valentines. We can choose the simple, ornate, bantering, intellectual, soulful or the "guess who" variety . . . the perfect Valentine is available.

Yet beyond modern-day multiplicity of cards and sentiments, when we write the name and address on the Valentine chosen for that one "certain" person, we are saying what Valentine-senders have been saying (and hoping) down through the centuries. Simply: "Oh, Valentine Please be mine!"

that era also were over-extravagant in vulgarity and insults.

Through all the changes in style and fashion, the pictorial symbols on Valentine cards have remained constant . . . hearts, cupids, cooing birds, lovely ladies, bashful beaux. But today there is no set "style" in Valentines. We can choose the simple, ornate, bantering, intellectual, soulful or the "guess who" variety . . . the perfect Valentine is available.

Yet beyond modern-day multiplicity of cards and sentiments, when we write the name and address on the Valentine chosen for that one "certain" person, we are saying what Valentine-senders have been saying (and hoping) down through the centuries. Simply: "Oh, Valentine Please be mine!"

The Midding:
East South West North
Pass INT Pass 3NT

Opening lead — six of spades.

I ran into Sylvia the other day and she told me I was slipping. As proof of this she cited a hand that appeared in this space recently. Sylvia wanted to know why I had not mentioned a simple play that would have defeated the contract.

Sylvia has a point, so here is the hand again. West leads a spade and declarer ducks in both hands, permitting East to win with the queen. This is the holdup play which declarer employs to break communication between the adverse hands.

Note what happens if East continues with a spade. South wins and leads a club. If East takes the club, he has no spade to return and declarer eventually makes nine tricks by leading a club again towards dummy. If West takes the club, he can establish his spades but then has no entry left to cash them.

If declarer takes the queen of spades immediately, he is defeated. As soon as East gets in on the first club lead, he returns a spade and South goes down one.

Let's say that East, after winning the queen of spades at trick one, shifts to the queen of diamonds. Declarer ducks again — once more making use of the holdup play — and for exactly the same reasons previously given.

It would now appear that the defense is completely bottled up, whether East reverts to spades or continues with diamonds. With defensive communications broken and with the club entries divided, it would seem that whichever suit East plays at trick three, the cause is lost, since the player whose suit gets established has no entry card to cash them.

However, as Sylvia points out, East can beat the hand by playing another diamond. South wins and leads a club. East takes the jack with the king and plays still another diamond — on which West discards the ace of clubs! This extraordinary discard puts South out of commission. He cannot escape defeat.

Obviously, Sylvia has not mellowed over the years. She is still the same delightful and irrepressible Sylvia.

Dear Abby

You Don't Need To Be A Goose

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 58-year-old widow who was left well-off financially. I wrote and asked you if I should marry a charming, fine-looking gentleman who claimed he loved me. I explained that although he had no money I wanted to marry him. But if I were to die first, I wanted my children to inherit my money, not him or his children. You told me to have my lawyer draw up a pre-nuptial agreement (stating the terms) and to have my fiancé sign it. He is now arguing that if he were to give me the best years of his life and I died first, he should be entitled to something. He says if HE had the money he wouldn't leave ME penniless. In other words, "what's good for the goose is good for the gander." What do you say?

DEAR WONDERING: I say he might be a goose but YOU don't have to be. Tell him to take a gander around at other widows and if he sees a better deal to grab it. And if he heads for the door, open it for him.

DEAR ABBY: I have a husband who said, "Honey, you work 7 days a week, so from now on I am going to give you one day a week off."

That day he lets me sleep late and he takes care of our two children. He brings me breakfast in bed. The coffee is weak and the toast is cold, but it is the most delicious meal of the week. Why don't more husbands act like that?

HAPPY WIFE

DEAR HAPPY: They probably will after I print this.

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell an 8-year-old blabbermouth that he is going to have a little brother (or sister)? He just loves babies and has told me several times he wished I would "get him" one. I want to tell him because I know it would make him happy but, knowing him, he will tell everybody about it. I don't want him telling some of our elderly neighbors who think it isn't right for little children to know these things. Also, I know he will start asking a lot of questions. Most of all I am afraid he might not say it right. You know how children can say things. Please help me. I'm six months now.

WANTS TO TELL

DEAR WANTS: Tell him! And don't worry about what the neighbors (young or elderly) will say. If he starts asking "a lot of questions," give him a lot of answers. The right ones.

DEAR ABBY: I always thought a girl should confide in her mother and I used to until I found out she was telling all my business to my aunt who has the biggest mouth in Philadelphia. Please, Abby, tell parents that the young people deserve to have their secrets kept, and if their parents don't do it they shouldn't cry and wring their hands when they discover their children are keeping secrets from them.

BETRAYED

DEAR BETRAYED: I know you are right and I hope this inspires thoughtless adults to think twice before betraying the confidences their children have entrusted them with.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Why Grow Old?

A Reminder For The Men

Josephine Lowman

Daily exercise is an important part of every improvement program — not for weight loss but to get the figure or physique in proportion. Sit-ups, with an added twist (touch the right elbow to left knee and left elbow to right knee) are good for slimming the baywindow.

For a few days I am writing to the men who read Why Grow Old? Yesterday, we decided (or I decided for you) that loss of excess weight is the number one step to take in order to increase your energy and efficiency, to improve your health and to insure your chances for a long life.

When it comes to calorie counting, most women are experts and most men are amateurs. The little lady has been at it for a long time while most men have held to the theory that if it tastes good it is good for them.

So, let me remind the men who are reading this of a few simple facts. The extras count up big! They seem harmless but they will land right on your baywindow if you have one, and if you don't, you soon will. For instance, the crackers and butter you eat with soup, the rolls and butter you eat with meat, the rich salad dressing you pile on your salad, the gravy you put on meat and the ice cream you put on pie—these all add calories. (You should not have pie anyway when losing weight, or hoping to do so. Forget desserts for the time being and stick to fresh fruit with a couple of crackers and a little cheese at the end of a meal.)

You can substitute skim milk or butter milk for whole milk and use one of the artificial sweeteners in your coffee and tea. As general rules, follow these simple suggestions, and adopt the habit of taking smaller helpings than you are accustomed to.

Many men want to know if they should cut their calorie intake as low as their wives when both want to reduce. The answer is NO. Because of a man's greater stature he requires more food even when reducing. My Tubby Hubby Diet averages about 1600 calories a day. For a quick loss, this is about right for the average man.

If you are very active physically, you can add a few hundred more calories and still reduce successfully. Your scales will tell you if you're eating too much.

If you would like to have the meals planned for you for a loss of from seven to 12 pounds in just 12 days time, you may want my Tubby Hubby Diet. If so, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 4. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. ## Palmer Wins Phoenix Golf

... PLAYER ONE BACK

Phoenix, Ariz. (P)—Arnold Palmer muscled his way to a 2-under-par 70 Tuesday to win the rain-plagued $35,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament by one stroke over Gary Player.

Palmer finished the 72-hole tournament in 15-under-par 273.

It marked the 3rd straight Phoenix victory for Palmer. He won in a play-off with Doug Sanders in 1961 and took last year's tournament by 12 strokes.

Player, who last week lost the Palm Springs tournament in a play-off with Jack Nicklaus, trailed Palmer by a stroke starting the final 18 holes over the soggy 6,679-yard par 74 Arizona Country Club course.

Tie Possible
He could have tied Palmer had he made a 4-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole. But after standing around nearly 7 minutes for a putt by Don January to drop from the cup lip, Player missed his shot by 6 inches.

Player was disturbed by the wait and sat staring at the scoreboard as Palmer dropped a 2-foot putt for his par on 18 and victory.

January, who finished with a 279, eventually had to nudge his ball into the 18th cup.

Sumner Keeps Lead

Class D's leading basketball teams will do some head-bumping before reaching the state tournament March 14-15-16.

The small schools, led again by unbeaten Sumner, will begin their district firing on Feb. 25. District playoffs are the following week.

Only Sumner will escape a top 10 challenge before reaching the state meet.

Sumner, victorious in 14 consecutive times, is in a 4-team playoff with districts led this week by Cairo (7-3), Elba (12-1), and Stapleton (8-5).

The Trojans should breeze to Lincoln.

Second-rated Herman could hit two other ranked clubs in pre-state tourney firing.

No. 9 Weston is a district foe while 4th-ranked Decatur looms in the playoff action. Herman and Decatur collide this week in the regular season in what could be a preview of the playoff finals at Howells on March 7.

Third-rated Clay Center and 10th-ranked Lawrence are in the same playoff bracket as are No. 7 Dorchester and No. 8 Polk.

De Witt and Western, ranked 5-6, are district foes.

Cassius, Brother Rudolph Put On Sparring Display

Miami, Fla. (P)—Cassius Clay and kid brother Rudolph put on a sparring show at the 5th street gym Tuesday for their proud daddy, who allowed that some day they will fight each other for the world heavyweight title.

No. 2 challenger Cassius, training for what he hopes will get him a shot at champ Sonny Liston, was joined by the family from Louisville, Ky., Monday.

Rudolph, a 190-pounder at 18, set up training camp with his brother. He said he would turn pro in 3 months.

"I've brought both of 'em out to be champions, and they've loved boxing since boyhood," said Cassius Sr. The boys' mother, Odesa, never watches them train.

"I scored my first knock-out when I was 2," Cassius said. "I knocked mom's two front teeth loose. You can still see the gap."

NU Snookered

Illinois is a member of the Big 10, but the University of Nebraska gymnastics team is wondering just how big the Illini are these days.

Last weekend Jake Geier's gym team went to Iowa City to compete in a scheduled double-dual meet with Iowa and Illinois.

However, the only report of the meet carried by the wire services noted that Iowa defeated Nebraska, 68-43.

What about Nebraska-Illinois? Good question. It was first thought that the Illini had pulled out of the meet or a scheduling error had been made. But not so.

The Cornhuskers just happened to blitz Illinois, 83-19. Why no report? Another good question.

It seems the Illini—who boast the enviable record of winning the most NCAA championships during the years—are having a down year and figured the Huskers might do what they did. Upon their return to Lincoln, the NU gym team had the final score and the answer:

The Illinois coach, not wanting to be embarrassed by Nebraska, persuaded host Iowa to not count the Husker-Illini scoring. In other words, Illinois wanted to compete but wanted the score of the NU match disregarded. Big 10 buddy Iowa readily agreed—and reported only that the Hawkeyes had whipped Nebraska.

Anyway, for the record, Nebraska thrashed the whiz kids (apparently in more ways than one) of the gymnastics world, 83-19—a solid reminder to the Illini of the old adage: if you can't stand the heat stay out of the kitchen.

Cowboys Roll

Oklahoma State continues to look for real in the Big 8 basketball race and Henry Iba's Cowboys may be the team to beat.

Colorado still leads the pack with a 6-1 record, but the stretch race should be a dandy—and the schedule favors the Pokes.

With 6 games left the Stillwater Sophomores have 4 assignments in Gallagher Hall, a spot where the Iron Duke's defenders seldom go into shock.

OSU draws Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas State and Kansas at home, meaning the Pokes could win all of 'em. On the road Iba has Nebraska and Colorado, a probable split. It's a tough road, of course, but Oklahoma State could wind up with a 5-1 mark down the stretch.

Colorado has 3 at home, 3 on the road, drawing Nebraska, Oklahoma State and Iowa State at Boulder. The Buffs travel to Iowa State, Missouri and Kansas State.

If the Buffs go 4-2 while OSU goes 5-1, a tie could result with both finishing 11-3. Kansas State is still in the picture, too, but the Wildcats have to meet Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma State and Iowa State in enemy territory. At home KS plays Colorado, Kansas and Iowa State.

Iowa State Key

Much will depend on (1) Buff Ken Charlton's game legs; (2) both Kansas-Kansas State games, outings which make Quantrell's Raiders look like cream puffs; (3) Iowa State's ability to knock off the top clubs—the Cyclones play two games with Kansas State and Colorado.

Even if Oklahoma State doesn't win this year, Iba will be a pre-season favorite for the 1964 crown. Only two seniors who have played will depart, Ivan Wiley and Max Shuck. And Gary Hassmann, a pre-season casualty this year, will rejoin the Cowboys.

Omaha Stuns Wesleyan Cagers With 74-68 Win

NWU Suffers 3rd Setback

... BID FOR NO. 20 FAILS

Omaha—Omaha University surprised Nebraska Wesleyan here Tuesday night and handed the Plainsmen their 3rd defeat of the season, 74-68.

John Lloyd and Bruce Hunter sparked the attack that prevented NWU from notching its 20th win of the year. Lloyd, a transfer from the University of Nebraska, scored 23 points. Hunter followed close behind with 21.

The lead in the contest bounced back and forth throughout most of the evening. The Plainsmen were on top by a slim point at half-time, 32-31.

Control Game
The Indians gained a 64-60 margin with 3:48 left in the contest, then wrapped up the victory with a control game. Free throws resulting from the stall kept Omaha ahead the rest of the way.

Wesleyan suffered both from its own fouls and an inability to convert on the other club's infractions.

Senior forward Daryl Mitchell gathered 4 fouls in the first half, then departed for the evening early in the second stanza. Don Beckmann also fouled out in the second half.

No Charity
The Plainsmen matched Omaha in field goals, 26-26, but could hit on just 16 of 30 chances at the free throw line. The Indians converted 22 of 29.

All 5 starters for NWU tallied in double figures. Ed Stevens and Chet Paul each scored 13 to lead the way.

The victory was Omaha's 7th of the year against 10 losses.

Wesleyan will attempt to get back on the win trail once more in a Friday night home contest with Hastings.

Cuba Names Huge Squad For Pan-Am Competition

Rio De Janeiro, Brazil (P)—Cuba is sending a huge squad to the Pan-American Games in Sao Paulo and special measures will be taken to prevent political demonstrations, an official for the Brazilian Olympic Committee said Tuesday.

Antonio Dos Reis Carneiro, secretary of the BOC, which has its headquarters here, said Fidel Castro's Caribbean republic is sending a team of 560 men and women to the games, April 20-May 5. This squad dwarfs the next largest, the 336 Argentina is entered. The United States is entering 231 the official said. "Sport is sport," Reis Carneiro told The Associated Press. "Politics is something entirely different. We won't give any opportunity for any political manifestations be it pro-Cuba or anti-Cuba."

He said the committee would accept no claims from anti-Castro Cubans living outside Cuba.

He said the committee also plans to ask the Sao Paulo police for increased patrols in the area of the Olympic village and at the playing fields to prevent any political demonstrations for or against the Cubans.

Bo's Behavior Better; Reports One Hour Late

Palm Springs, Calif. (P)—Los Angeles Angels Manager Bill Rigney noted with enthusiasm that Bo Belinsky was only an hour late for drill for the battery men Tuesday.

"The kid seemed so sincere about mending his ways," Rigney commented with tongue in cheek.

"You have to remember he was 9 days late last year."

Horse Breeding Bill Dies In Committee

The Legislature's Agriculture Committee killed 4-3 Tuesday a bill designed to require eventually that race horses eligible for Nebraska bred races at the state's tracks be not only born in Nebraska, but bred in this state.

Breeders were split at a public hearing on the measure, LB517, introduced by Sen. George C. Gerdes.

As drawn, the bill would have provided that part of the pari-mutuel tax be plowed into purses for Nebraska bred races, but Gerdes offered an amendment at the outset of Tuesday's hearing eliminating this provision.

Under Nebraska law, one race on each racing day is designated as a race for horses foaled (born) in Nebraska.

LB517, with another proposed Gerdes amendment, would have required that after Jan. 1, 1965, horses would need to be both conceived (bred) and foaled in the state to be eligible.

Backers of the change said

Washington (P)—Warren M. Lockwood, Washington area contractor and businessman, challenged Tuesday the announcement that the Dallas Texans of the American Football League may move to Kansas City.

Lockwood said he had an agreement with the league that when Kansas City was considered for a franchise he would be given consideration. He said he had been negotiating with AFL owners since last June.

Lockwood's attorney sent a letter to Dallas Texans owner Lamar Hunt contending that the possible move of Dallas "clearly shows that this agreement has been breached."

K-State Lashes

Husker Matmen

Manhattan, Kan. (UPI) — Three Kansas State grapplers pinned Nebraska matmen to lead a 30-12 defeat of the visitors Tuesday night.

The 3 Kansas State wrestlers to pin opponents were Joe Seay over Larry Lebruska, in the 147-pound class, Dick DeMoss who downed Charles Clatterback in the 157-pound division and Benton Smith over Bruce O'Callaghan in the 177-pound class.

Nebraska's Mike Nissen defeated Dave Unruh, 5-4, in the 128-pound division and heavyweight Robert Zartner downed Jack Grove of Nebraska, 2-1.

115—Steve Walenz (N) won by forfeit, 125—Mike Nissen (N) dec. Dave Unruh, 5-4, 130—Gus Garcia (KS) dec. Chuck Martin, 4-1, 137—John Thompson (KS) dec. Dick Vandelee, 5-0, 147—Joe Seay (KS) pinned Larry Lebruska, 8-19, 157—Dick DeMoss (KS) pinned Charles Clatterback, 2-41, 167—Alvin Bird (KS) dec. Ken Fox, 4-4, 177—Dick Smith (KS) pinned Bruce O'Callaghan, 6-18, 191—Jerry Metz (KS) dec. Gordon Chipman, 1-0, Heavyweight—Robert Zartner (N) dec. Jack Grove, 2-1.

"There's no doubt in my mind that we had a commitment," Lockwood said.

He said he was asking for an early meeting with Hunt and league officials to discuss the situation.

Last July 27, the City Council of Kansas City adopted a resolution expressing its intent to lease the Municipal Stadium to a group of Kansas City residents represented by Lockwood for $1 a year for 3 years with the rent becoming a per cent of the gate receipts for the next 7 years.

Floyd Will Go To Fla.

5 Weeks Before Fight

New York (P)—Floyd Patterson plans to go to Florida to finish his training 5 weeks before his return title fight with heavyweight champion Sonny Liston, his trainer said.

AFL Executive Denies Franchise Commitment

Dallas, Tex. (P)—Milt Woodard, assistant commissioner of the American Football League, said so far as he knew Warren M. Lockwood had no agreement with the AFL giving him exclusive rights to a franchise in Kansas City.

Lockwood, Washington businessman, challenged Tuesday the proposed removal of the Dallas Texans to Kansas City, declaring he had an agreement with the league that when Kansas City was considered for a franchise he would be given consideration.

Woodard said he checked the minutes of the league meeting in Boston June 26 of last year when Lockwood made a presentation in behalf of Kansas City but it was for the purpose of expansion and not on the question of moving a franchise.

"If Lockwood was given exclusive rights it was for the purpose of expansion," said Woodard. "He put up $25,000 for a franchise but this was returned to him Jan. 2 when no expansion was contemplated."

Lockwood said he wanted a conference with Lamar Hunt, owner of the Dallas Texans, who announced last week he would move his franchise to Kansas City if 25,000 season tickets were sold.

Hunt was out of town Tuesday and unavailable for comment on the situation.

Mele Thinks Twins Will Give Yanks Trouble

Minnesota Twins (13th of a series of 1963 team prospects, written under the manager's own byline) By SAM MELE Quincy, Mass. (P) — The Minnesota Twins very definitely have to be considered contenders for the American League flag. I feel that the entire league will be stronger than it was a year ago. This means the Yankees will have four or five teams chasing them most of the way, with a good chance that one of these can overcome them. I think our club is pretty well set. We had a good club last year that wanted to win and when it didn't win, it wanted to know why. It had spirit and desire and a great yearning to do better. Two Reasons There are a number of reasons why I think the club will be improved this season and two of them are Zoilo Versalles and Dick Stigman. Versalles was by far the best shortstop in the league the last half of the season and I see no reason why he can't duplicate his play for the entire season. Versalles is a worrier. He used to worry about his hitting and it affected his fielding. But he has learned to separate his fielding from his hitting, and he comes up with tremendous plays in the field. And he hit a lot better last season. Zorro hit 17 home runs.

The Twins will be using Stigman as a starter from the beginning whereas last year he didn't get a starting assignment until the season was well under way. And once he got his chance, he became one of our best pitchers.

in knocking in runs. Our outfield carries as much punch as any outfield in the league and in Earl Battey we have the best catcher in the league.

Although we made no trades, we did draft Charlie Keller, Jr., who could fit in nicely. Should he show enough, he would fit nicely into our plans to share the left-handed pinch hitting duties with Don Mincher.

Pedro Oliva has a chance to make the club although he may need a year in Triple A. He's a good looking left-handed hitting outfielder and could fit in nicely should one of my outfielders come up with an injury.

As far as the pennant picture is concerned, the Yankees definitely have the edge as they won last year. Detroit, Cleveland and the White Sox have real good clubs and I expect will all give the Yankees trouble. So will we.

Fremont's Rainey Is Week's Best

LANKY TIGER STAR SET SCHOOL RECORD

By CONDE SARGENT Prep Sports Writer Lanky Ed Rainey, whose athletic career nearly was halted by a hurdle accident, is this week's high school Player of The Week.

The 6-5, 4-year letterman set a Fremont High scoring record of 35 points against Norfolk last weekend.

He topped the old mark of 32 set by Tom Merrick in 1957-58.

Rainey joined the Fremont club late this year, finally recovering from a broken leg suffered last spring in track.

At first, doctors didn't believe he would play prep sports again, according to Fremont buffs.

A 3-year regular and a member of Fremont's state championship club in 1961, Rainey will appear in Lincoln this week along with his teammates to test Northeast Saturday at the Activities Building.

Rainey's play against the shorter Norfolk club was so dominating that the press photographer at the game had Rainey in each of his 12 exposures.

His exploits nipped the heroics of the following players for top honors:

Leon Muff, Crete — His two free throws with 5 seconds left defeated University High and renewed hope for Class B teams.

Bob Gingery, David City — 5-6 guard hit an unbelievable 30-foot jump shot to beat Wahoo in the final second in the semifinals of the Platte Valley tourney. The next night he sparked the David City club to its first conference tourney title.

Rodney Engel, Friend — Ten points in final quarter brought victory over Sutton.

Duane Bullock, Dorchester — Veteran had best night, doing everything in win over Alexandria. Mike Guillatt, Auburn — 28 points and 34 rebounds took care of Syracuse.

Dick Braesch, Bennington — Big man led successful trip through Eastern Nebraska Conference tournament.

Cincy Again Named First In UPI Poll

New York (UPI) — The race for the major college national basketball championship reached the "one miss and out" stage Wednesday for top-ranked Cincinnati and runnerup Loyola of Chicago.

Cincinnati, unbeaten through 19 games this season and 37 in all, over the last two campaigns, was named No. 1 for the 11th straight week in the United Press International board of coaches ratings, while Loyola, with a perfect 20-0 record, was ranked No. 2.

The Bearcats once again received all 35 first-place votes from the rating board, which is composed of 5 coaches from each of the nation's 7 geographical regions. Loyola was named No. 2 by 32 of the coaches for a 307-point total, only 43 less than Cincinnati's perfect score of 350.

Cincinnati has only 5 games left to play while the Ramblers have 6. But Cincinnati apparently has tougher opposition with only 3 weeks left before the crowning of the national champion. The Bearcats finish up against Wichita, North Texas State, Tulsa, Xavier (Ohio) and St. Louis; Loyola concludes against Marquette, Bowling Green, St. John's (N.Y.), Houston, Ohio U. and Wichita.

Handicapped Education Aid Closer To Cost Proposed

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Elvin Adamson of Nelzel Tuesday proposed a state aid program for education of educable mentally handicapped and physically handicapped children tied closer to actual costs.

Adamson's proposal came in the form of a suggested amendment to LB184, a bill which would provide state aid in the flat sum of $300 per pupil for the educable mentally handicapped and $600 per pupil for the physically handicapped.

The measure was held over for further debate Thursday.

Adamson's amendment would categorize specific dollar aid for various types of physically handicapped children with an eye toward "realistic expenditures by category."

Under the proposal, state aid would be allocated on a per pupil basis of $50 for speech and hearing therapy; $400 for acoustically handicapped; $250 for homebound physically handicapped; $300 for orthopedically handicapped; and $125 for visually handicapped.

Aid for educable mentally handicapped would be placed at $200 per pupil.

The amendment also provides that whenever the cost of education exceeds the total regular per pupil costs, the state would pay one-half of such excess, not to exceed twice the amount specified for the particular category.

"I want the aid to go to

'EQUALITY STILL BEING TESTED'

The proposition that all men are created equal, continues to be tested as it was in President Abraham Lincoln's day, Dr. Clarence Forsberg, pastor of St. Paul Methodist Church in Lincoln, said Tuesday.

Dr. Forsberg was the principal speaker at a special program in the Legislature commemorating Lincoln's birthday and the 100th anniversary of the signing of the Emancipation Proclamation.

He said the equality proposition is being tested in the churches, lodges, fraternities, sororities and other clubs, at Oxford, Miss., and in international policy.

It is being tested, he said, "wherever you find fear, half-heartedness, bigotry and ignorance."

The Rev. Martin Schroeder, chairman of the Legislature, directed the program which featured also music by the Lincoln Southeast High School choir, a flute presentation by Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Whitney of Omaha, a piano solo by Miss Rosaline Mohsen, and a vocal solo by W. Marquardt.

Churchill Is Made Citizen Of Nebraska

Nebraska's Legislature Tuesday made Great Britain's Sir Winston Churchill a full citizen of the state.

Sen. Sam Klaver of Omaha, chief introducer of the resolution, said the step should bring Nebraska "a million dollars worth of publicity."

In fact, said Klaver, he and friends have agreed that if Sir Winston comes to Washington, D. C. for a visit, they will pay his expenses to come to Nebraska and return.

Klaver introduced the resolution as the result of suggestions that if Sir Winston is to be made an honorary citizen of the United States as has been proposed in Congress, he needs first to become a citizen of one of its states.

The Nebraska resolution was designed to erase that legal obstacle.

Klaver said he has long admired the British statesman and "it would be a great honor to have an outstanding international hero like Sir Winston Churchill as a citizen of Nebraska."

Nobody opposed the resolution and it was adopted 38-0.

But the speaker of the Legislature, Sen. William Moulton of Omaha, presiding at the time, wondered aloud if Sir Winston now becomes subject to Nebraska taxes.

The question went unanswered.

Average per pupil costs in excess of regular costs actually total $52.90 for speech and hearing therapy; $269 for homebound; $269 for school-to-home telephone homebound; $395 for orthopedically handicapped, and $153 for visually handicapped.

Adamson also presented the Legislature with figures placing the average per pupil excess cost for educable mentally handicapped children at $235.

Of 4,649 children now participating in school programs for the physically handicapped, the great majority—3,305—are in the generally low-cost speech and hearing

European Reds In Iraq Now Want Out

... REGIME HARASSES

Beirut, Lebanon, (AP) — East European communists who swarmed into Iraq during the Arab Karim Kassem's dictatorship are reported clamoring to get out now under harassment by the revolutionary council that is killing home-grown Reds.

Whatever the implications, Red China Tuesday joined more than a dozen other powers in recognizing the new regime. The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union extended recognition Monday.

Gunter Stocker, a West German businessman, said the Iraqis have begun cracking down on eastern communists who entered along with the millions of dollars worth of arms that Kassem bought from the Soviet Union. Newly arrived by a Lebanese airliner from Baghdad, he said:

"They are treating the Westerners excellently, but for people from the eastern European communist countries it is a very different thing."

"I was told that so far 3 East German military advisers attached to the army under Kassem have been arrested. The east Europeans are trying to get out of the country."

There are hundreds of east Europeans in Iraq, including arms specialists, technicians and businessmen.

Stocker reported that, in the new regime's continuing effort to wipe out domestic opposition, "4 more Communists were executed this morning."

Take Portraits

A fellow German, Kurt Gartner of the Lufthansa Airlines, told newsmen Iraqi troops pulled down hundreds of portraits of the executed Kassem and also ordered withdrawal of photographs of President Nasser of the United Arab Republic and Iraq's new president, Abdel Salam Aref, that had been put up since the revolt Friday.

"They seem to be trying to avoid the personality cult that Kassem created," Gartner said.

Informed political sources here said there are increasing signs in that area an admirer of Nasser who was named chief executive by rebel officers, is a relatively powerless figurehead.

Pardon Board To Consider

Clarence Trvz, 56, of Wilber, serving a life term for first degree murder, will be heard by the State Board of Pardons March 13.

Trvz began serving the life sentence in 1950 after being convicted in the shooting death of Mrs. Helen Mc Elroy of Wilber.

Twenty three other cases also have been set for pardon board hearings on March 11 at the Penitentiary, 8 at the Men's Reformatory and 4 at the Women's Reformatory.

'Outside-Iowa Fund In Liquor Lobby'

Iowa Gov. Harold E. Hughes said Tuesday he has received a report that club operators in surrounding states are contributing to a fund to lobby against legalizing liquor-by-the-drink in Iowa.

Nebraska interests said they had no knowledge of any such fund.

Vernon Taylor, a member of the Nebraska Liquor Commission, said he was "in the dark" about the report.

However, Taylor added, "such a report is very serious, and we will check out its validity immediately."

'No Meddling'

South Sioux City, Neb., liquor dealers released a statement saying they were sympathetic with Iowa's liquor problems, but do not "anticipate meddling in the internal affairs of Iowa."

The statement was issued by Frank Kneifl, a lawyer representing the South Sioux City Retail Liquor Dealers Association.

Kneifl did not refer directly to Hughes' comments, but left no doubt his statement was in reply to the Iowa governor.

Hughes said a friend called him from Onawa, Iowa, Monday night and said he had been told by a restaurant operator that about $50,000 had been collected in South Sioux City, Neb., to be used

NU Gift Enables More Air Study

The University of Nebraska has received a $29,220 research grant from the U.S. Public Health Service to support a continued study of air pollution directed by Dr. Donald M. Pace.

Pace is director of the Institute of Cellular Research and a professor of physiology at the university.

in an attempt to keep Iowa dry.

Hughes said he was told the fund activity was most prevalent in Illinois and Nebraska.

Border Business

There has been speculation that night clubs and taverns around the Iowa border would lose business if liquor-by-the-drink is legalized in Iowa.

Hughes is campaigning for liquor-by-the-drink, but also has cracked down on key clubs and illegal liquor sales.

As a result, one Sioux City club operator said recently that "every night is New Year's Eve" in South Sioux City because Iowans were streaming across the Missouri River to purchase drinks.

However, Kneifl said Tuesday that the South Sioux City dealers have "had no appreciable increase or decrease in their overall business at this time."
